Illinois Guard May Serve 16 Months

OFFICER BARES TALK OF PLANS FOR 'OVERTIME'

'We'll Know in 90 Days,' He Says.

BY GEORGE SCHREIBER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Camp Forrest, Tenn., Feb. 2.—A possibility that troops of the 33d division, Illinois National Guard, as well as other National Guard regiments already in the field, will not be returned to their home stations at the expiration of a year of service was voiced today by Brig. Gen. T. A. Frazier, adjutant general of Tennessee.

Maj. Gen. Lawton.

The 33d division is scheduled to be inducted into federal service on March 5 and will train at Camp Forrest, near Tullahoma.

Will Know in 90 Days.

"There is considerable talk that the National Guard troops will be in the field 16 months, instead of 12 months, as planned originally," Gen. Frazier said. "Of course I know nothing about this officially, but we should know definitely within 90 days."

Maj. Gen. Samuel T. Lawton, commander of the Illinois National Guard, said he had not heard of any extension of the time of field service. He refused to comment on Gen. Frazier's statement.

Camp Forrest was inspected today by Gen. Lawton and two staff officers, Lieut. Col. John A. Prosser and Maj. Clifford Templeton.

Post Is Nearly Completed.

The post is nearly completed despite the handicap of a shortage of material, labor trouble and inclement weather. Maj. Carl H. Breitwieser, the constructing quartermaster, told Gen. Lawton that work will be finished by March 5.

During a tour of the post this afternoon, observers could see that when the troops tumble off motor trucks and railroad trains they will find a military city of more than 1,300 buildings, built at a cost of approximately 18 million dollars. The war department has characterized the construction as temporary, but the buildings are being fabricated to last at least 20 years.

Of the 1,300 buildings, there are 408 barracks, accommodating 63 men each. And they are not the same type of construction common in the world war. The buildings are being painted in white with gray trim.

Hospital Units Connected.

There are 158 mess halls, with a capacity of 170 men each; 168 day rooms, the same number of storehouses, 20 administration buildings, 38 officers' quarters, 30 truck repair shops, a complete hospital unit—and a word of warning, 19 guardhouses.

Each building of the hospital unit, which will be completed Feb. 22, is connected with the others by a system of covered corridors. There are so many corridors that one can walk for two miles, according to Maj. Breitwieser, without going outside.

The hospital will have a capacity of 1,000 beds in 69 buildings. It cost a million dollars.

A staff of doctors and 125 nurses is expected to report for duty on Feb. 24 to prepare the hospital for the arrival of the troops. The rooms and wards will be painted in bright colors and the grounds will be landscaped.

Water Supply Adequate.

A test of the water filtration plant was made today and proved satisfactory. The filtration plant is capable of pumping 4 million gallons of water a day. The expected use for nearly 30,000 troops is one million. The water system was built as an afterthought, as the designers of the camp had hoped to take the water from wells. The well system was not satisfactory to war department engineers, however, so a conduit system was installed. The water is drawn from the Big Elk river, which rises in the Cumberland mountains.

Construction was started 60 days ago and in that time 86 miles of pipe have been laid and all the pumping and filtration machinery installed.

EARL DEW, 1940 CHAMPION RIDER, DIES AFTER SPILL

Earl Dew, American jockey champion of 1940, died yesterday of injuries suffered in a three-way spill earlier in the day at the Agua Caliente, Mex., race track. Dew, 19 year old native of Sac City, Ia., died in an ambulance while being taken to a San Diego, Cal., hospital. His mount, Bosca, was instantly killed. The two other jockeys and two other horses involved in the mishap were uninjured.

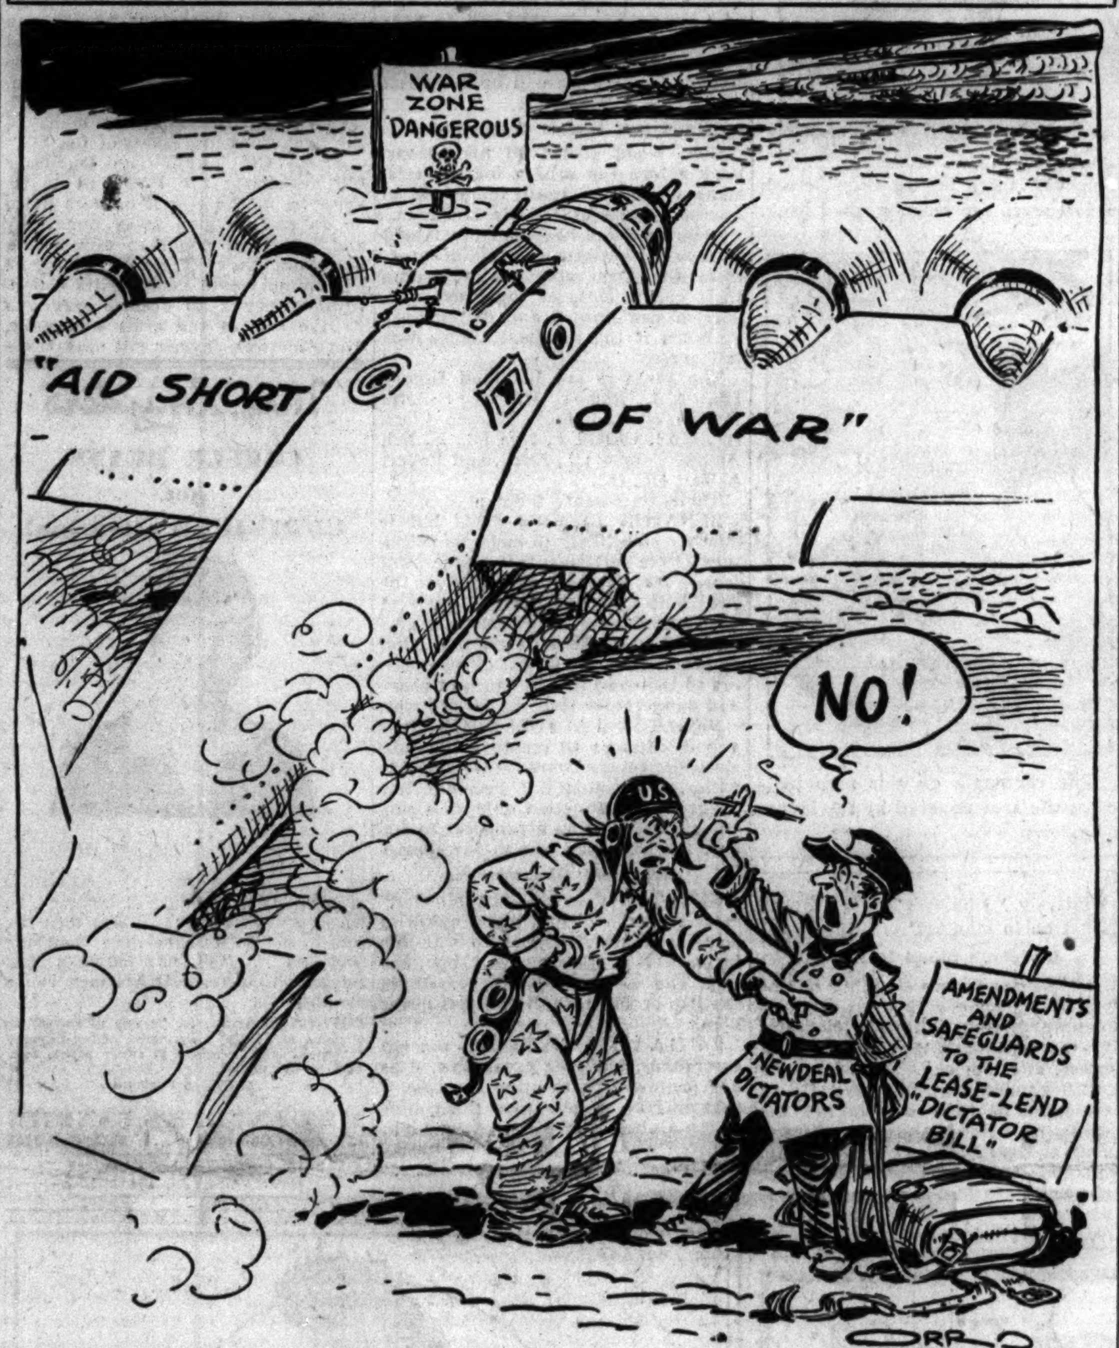
INSISTING ON A PARACHUTE FOR THE PERILOUS FLIGHT



South African Soldiers and Civilians Riot

JOHANNESBURG, Union of South Africa, Feb. 2 (AP).—Fierce rioting between soldiers and civilians suspected of anti-British sympathies broke out in this capital of Transvaal province on Friday. Peace was not fully restored until today.

Arrow locates city where riots took place.

The wildest scenes took place last night and today when thousands of police and street fighters were involved. Police resorted to tear gas bombs and baton charges to break up the fighting in the heart of the city and about 140 persons, mostly soldiers, were sent to hospitals.

Disorders Follow Meeting.

The disorders were traced to differences between soldiers and civilians following a meeting on Friday of the Ossewabrandwag, an organization embracing extreme Republicanism and generally considered anti-British.

The meeting, said to have been "purely cultural" and "nonpolitical," was orderly but clashes took place after it between soldiers and civilians, some of the latter wearing beards favored by members of the Ossewabrandwag. Police intervened but the soldiers showed resentment at taking their orders.

Rioting flared anew last night and continued into today when soldiers on Saturday night leave attacked a bearded man on a street car. The city was crowded with soldiers and the streets rang with the clamor of rioting.

Throw Bricks, Smash Windows.

When the police prevented the soldiers from reaching the Ossewabrandwag offices in the building of the newspaper Transvaaler, they ran around the structure smashing its windows and throwing bricks.

Many store windows also were smashed and automobiles wrecked before the rioters were cleared from the streets. Armored cars still patroled the streets hours after the fighting had died down.

It's Quite a World!

HONGKONG, Feb. 2 (AP).—The U. S. gunboat Mindanao arrived at Canton today from Hongkong with 100,000 capsules of synthetic vitamin B1 for Chinese hospitals. The vitamin, furnished by the American Red Cross, will be used to reduce mortality among Chinese ill of beriberi.

MOSCOW, Feb. 2 (AP).—Three million young communists turned out today for cross-country ski races thruout northern Russia in honor of the 23d anniversary of the creation of the Red army.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Feb. 2.—The Berlin correspondent of the Stockholm newspaper Tidningen today reported that German troops destined to fight in Africa are being trained in special hothouses near Berlin and in Thuringia. He described the hothouses as chambers 109 yards long and 65 wide, with the temperature maintained at about 104 degrees Fahrenheit, and the humidity often varied. The soldiers work in this atmosphere for 48 hours at a time with only half a bottle of tepid water to drink. They are fed tropical foods.

LONDON, Feb. 2 (AP).—The government has asked each member of parliament to carry a gas mask at all times, Sir Annesley Ashworth Somerville, a Conservative member, told a Maidenhead audience today. "I don't think one person in 50 carries a gas mask, but now that we know of the imminence of invasion every one should do so," he said.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Feb. 2.—A decree issued today grants priority of minority languages over Hungarian in the minority schools of the country. Since 1935 the minority languages and Hungarian have been on an equal basis, but now Hungarian will be obligatory only as a second language in certain regions. There are 1,200 minority schools in Hungary, of which 700 are pure minority and 500 so-called mixed schools.

Manitowoc, Wis., Feb. 2 [Special]. Art Donohue, Manitowoc aviator now flying with the R. A. F., writes from England to friends here a request to "send pencils with erasers; there doesn't seem to be any over here."

Princeton, N. J., Feb. 2 (AP).—Dean Christian Gauss announced today repeal of the nearly two century old Princeton university rule forbidding undergraduates to keep liquor in their rooms.

Friends Reveal Duchess Wally Has Face Lifted

New York, Feb. 2.—Friends of the duchess of Windsor revealed today, the New York News says, that whispered reports concerning her royal highness are true—that the former Baltimore belle has had her face lifted. The story as told by the New York News asserts:

The operation was performed between Christmas and New Year's day by Dr. I. Daniel Shorell, New York plastic surgeon, who since has kept his own counsel. The work was done in the privacy of the governor's mansion in Nassau, where reports were given out that the duchess was suffering from a slight cold.

Elaborate preparations were made in advance. The duchess was having trouble with her teeth, and it was feared that a face lifting operation under those conditions might bring on complications.

So They Go to a Dentist.

So the duchess, accompanied by the duke, went to Miami, where an infected wisdom tooth was removed. On Dec. 17 the pair returned to their domain in the Bahamas.

Meanwhile Dr. Shorell went to Hollywood, Fla., where he remained until he received word to proceed to Nassau. There he examined the duchess and decided the operation should be limited in scope—that nothing would be done to her nose or to the skin around her eyes.

The duchess, friends said, suggested that the mole on her chin be removed. But Dr. Shorell argued that to remove the mole would be to advertise that her face had been operated upon.

In Bandages for 3 Days.

For three days the duchess remained in her quarters, her face swathed in bandages. At the end of the third day the bandages were removed and she surveyed the surgeon's handiwork.

"Only the tiniest scars remain," one of her friends said today. "These are just under the ears and back of them. The duchess did not even have to change her usual hair-do. Her regular coiffure covers the scars completely. The operation has not changed her expression in the slightest. She looks years younger."

Her friends said the once sagging skin under the chin is now firm and taut.

BRITISH PURSUE FASCISTS AFTER AGORDAT FALLS

Duce's Men Retreat in Ethiopia, Too.

CAIRO, Egypt, Feb. 2 (AP).—The capture of Agordat, important rail center in Eritrea, with "many hundreds" of Italian prisoners, guns, and transport material, was announced today by the British who said they were moving forward on all fronts in the East African campaign against the Italian empire.

[In the Greek-Italian war in Albania, the Greeks captured a 10 mile long mountain range north of Klisura, dispatches from Athens said yesterday. Details on page 4.]

The final attack on Agordat, whose railway runs a crooked course thru deep gullies and rough wooded hills to Massaua, the only good Italian port on the Red sea, was carried out yesterday by British and Indian troops after a violent bombing by British planes.

The actual battle lasted two days and the Italians fought stubbornly, the British said, but by dusk yesterday a good part of the garrison had withdrawn and was moving toward Keren, about 40 miles to the northeast, with advance units of the British in pursuit.

Mass for Bengazi Attack.

While these operations were in progress, the British 2,000 miles away to the northwest were still concentrating their forces west of Derna for the siege of Bengazi, in Italian North Africa. Things were proceeding "smoothly," a communique said.

The capture of Agordat, British officers said, consolidated the advance from Kassala, Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, 100 miles eastward and 80 miles into Eritrea in the central area and about 70 miles into the southern part of the colony to Biacundi. The line between the two towns is about 100 miles long and almost entirely controled by the British save in the Barentu area where "operations are developing well."

Additional prisoners were seized at Biacundi when that town was taken from the forces which originally had withdrawn from Umm Hagar on the Eritrea-Ethiopia border.

Abandon Mechanical Transport.

Moreover, the communique said, the Italians were withdrawing from the Walkit district of Ethiopia, abandoning the bulk of their mechanical transport. This withdrawal was in part the result of the British activities and partly the result of attacks by native Ethiopian troops.

Still farther south in Ethiopia the Italians also were retreating on the Metemma-Gondar road, closely followed by mobile British troops, the communique said. In Italian Somaliland, too, the British said, the Fascists were falling back.

The R. A. F., summing up its activities in Italian East Africa, said bombers of the South African air force attacked concentrations of motor transport at Mega and Iavello, airdromes at Zula and El Ghena, and stores at Assab.

NAZIS RAID DESERT COAST

ROME, Feb. 2 (AP).—Powerful Nazi air raids on the British captured coast of North Africa were reported today in an Italian communique which said seven British ships, totaling more than 25,000 tons, had been sunk by German war planes and an Italian submarine.

German air squadrons, the high command said, bombed the port and defenses of Sollum, Egypt, and Bardia, Libya, and "carried out intensive offensive action against enemy merchant ships along the desert coast."

Besides three ships of "medium tonnage" sunk and three others damaged in the offshore forays, it reported, one 10,000 ton ship was sent to the bottom of Bardia bay. One Italian submarine, operating in the Atlantic, was credited with sinking three ships totaling 15,000 tons from an escorted convoy of four vessels.

[A German high command communique said Nazi planes made attacks on several North African harbors serving as British supply ports, sank three ships totaling 14,000 tons, and damaged three others.]

The Fascist war bulletin presented the Nazi operations in North Africa as part of a combined axis air offensive in which, it said, Italian flyers shot down two British Hurricanes and bombed "nuclei of enemy mechanized forces."

INQUIRING REPORTER

THE QUESTION—Do you favor our getting into the European war?

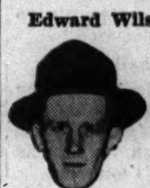
WHERE ASKED—At typical street corners thruout the city, including the following:
79th street and Kenwood avenue.
63d street and Western avenue.
12th street and Kedzie avenue.
Lincoln and Belmont avenues.
Wilson avenue and Broadway.
Fountain Square, Evanston.
The question also was asked in the Merchandise Mart and Union station.

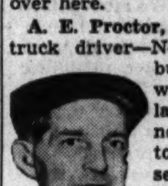


Edward Wilson, 1337 Belmont avenue, hat salesman—We haven't any troubles over in Europe, and I don't think they will bring theirs over here. In case they do, then we should fight, but not until then. Britain should pay for anything she asks from us.

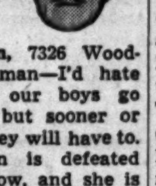
William Cookingham, 2647 Seminary avenue, mailman—There is no immediate danger of our being attacked, so I don't see why we should get into the war. If Britain can buy materials from us, that's all right, but we should not put ourselves in danger.

Miss Elvina Duhn, 915 Wilson avenue, stenographer—They started the fight over there. Let them finish it there. Right now it's none of our business. We should be concerned only in training our men as fast as we can to defend this country.

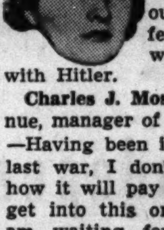
Paul D. Bowles, 1551 East 65th street, insurance agent—This country should have no part in the European war. We're not mad at any one or any country, and we haven't lost anything over there. I do approve, however, of training our men over here.



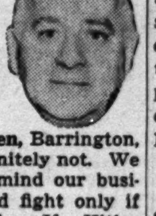
A. E. Proctor, 7204 Halsted street, truck driver—No. We haven't any business in this war. I was over there the last time, and it was no picnic. All we need to do to help is to send 38 good battleships and 10,000 bombing planes to Britain.



Leonard Lesh, 633 North Dearborn street, carpenter—I was in the last war. My son is of draft age, and I shudder to think of him going thru something like that. There's no need for us to put our noses in other people's business.



Miss Mary Callahan, 7326 Woodlawn avenue, saleswoman—I'd hate to see our boys go across, but sooner or later they will have to. Britain is defeated right now, and she is our first line of defense. I hope we soon will be able to cope with Hitler.



Charles J. Moser, 6131 Leader avenue, manager of men's clothing store—Having been in the last war, I don't see how it will pay us to get into this one. I am waiting for the statesmen to define the war aims. Then I may change my mind.

Miss Hazel Van Keuren, Barrington, Ill., office worker—Definitely not. We should mind our business and fight only if attacked. If Hitler starts over here it's time enough to start battling. It's a big ocean, and as long as it's there I don't think we are in immediate danger.

BRITAIN'S HALT ON WAR BUYING JARS CONGRESS

Suspect 'Sit' Strike to Get U. S. In.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—Indications that Great Britain is engaged in a sitdown strike to force the United States to carry on the war against Germany and Italy loom large as a factor in the consideration of the war dictatorship bill by the house this week.

Many members of the house, it transpired today, are aroused by the testimony of Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau and other members of the administration that the British ceased buying aircraft, arms, and other munitions a month ago because of lack of dollars and would be compelled to stop fighting unless congress passes the bill to furnish them unlimited military equipment.

Hard to Believe.

Congressmen find it hard to believe that the greatest, richest, and most powerful empire in the world's history has been brought to its knees by the German reich, which barely seven years ago was bankrupt itself. Their skepticism is deepened by the official figures showing that Great Britain possesses not less than 15 billion dollars' worth of assets outside of the United States which could be used as collateral for loans to carry on the war.

Why a nation with 15 billion dollars' worth of assets should be compelled to stop fighting for its self-preservation is the question being asked on every side as the house prepares for three days of general debate on the dictator bill beginning tomorrow noon. Secretary Morgenthau said that it is difficult to liquidate these assets, which consist largely of railroads, plantations, and other physical property. To which the skeptics retort that it is the first time in history that a country fighting for its existence has been unable to liquidate its assets.

Aid Plans Stalled.

American government officials have revealed privately in the last few days that their plans for increased aid to Britain have been stalled. The British have placed no important contracts for armament since December. The 12,000 additional planes the President promised Britain during the Presidential campaign are still no more than a promise. No contracts have been signed for the manufacture of any of these planes.

A theory held by some is that if Britain is ready to stop fighting unless she can get outside aid Britain must be ready to make peace with Germany on the best terms obtainable. There have been rumors for some time that the British despair of defeating Hitler and are receptive to the suggestion of a negotiated peace by virtue of which Hitler would control the European continent and Britain would retain her empire.

Widely Held View.

The view more widely held in congress, however, is that Britain's failure to liquidate British assets to obtain dollars and Britain's cessation of arms buying signify a deliberate sitdown strike aimed at America in general and Mr. Roosevelt in particular. It is regarded as a maneuver to induce the United States to assume the future conduct and cost of the war by threatening the stoppage of a war which Mr. Roosevelt pronounces essential to our national defense.

One of the big battles of the week in the house will be over an amendment providing that Britain shall be required to give security so far as possible for loans whether in cash or in goods. In this connection the justification of the President's plan to lend and lease actual military equipment instead of the funds to buy such equipment will be questioned. Mr. Roosevelt is reputed to have conceived this scheme as one that would prove more palatable to the American people than would an outright money loan, in view of Britain's default of payment of the world war debt.

While the house is debating the dictator bill the senate foreign relations committee will continue hearing testimony for and against the measure. These hearings will continue thruout this week and at least part of next week.

GOVERNMENT HIT FOR 'MISLEADING' U.S. ON WAR ACTS

Sterling Morton's Views in Anti-War Pamphlet.

Those Americans who favor all-out aid to Britain, with the risk of war it entails, do so because they have been misled by government propaganda and fail to realize that the actions they approve are actually war measures and not merely "actions short of war."

Sterling Morton.

This assertion is made by Sterling Morton, Chicago manufacturer and a member of the national committee of the America First committee, in a pamphlet, "Let's Think this Matter Thru," recently distributed by the America First organization.

More than 25,000 copies of the pamphlet have been distributed, America First headquarters said. Copies may be obtained free at headquarters in the Board of Trade building.

The Roosevelt administration already has given aid to Great Britain which, under international law and The Hague convention, amounts to acts of war, Morton declared.

Five "Fallacies" Challenged.

He listed five "fallacies" which he said were fed to the people by the Roosevelt administration's propaganda machine, and answered each. The "fallacies" and Morton's answers:

FALLACY NO. 1—For over 100 years our defense has been the British fleet.

ANSWER—The British fleet exists to defend or extend the British empire, and for no other purpose. If the United States relies on Britain for defense, it will eventually suffer the fate of every nation which has confided its safety to others.

FALLACY NO. 2—If England falls, we are next.

ANSWER—The Germans have been unable to cross 22 miles of English channel. The great British fleet could not maintain an expeditionary force at the Dardanelles in the last war nor in Norway during this war. Invasion is a remote possibility.

Japan Second Best Customer.

FALLACY NO. 3—We must stop Japanese action against the Dutch East Indies or further conquest of Indo-China.

ANSWER—Why quarrel with Japan, our second best overseas customer? We want 'America for Americans,' so perhaps they want 'Asia for the Asiatics.' It is entirely possible that some sympathetic consideration, a few kind words, and some realistic diplomacy by the United States might convert Japan into a loyal and co-operative friend.

FALLACY—NO. 4—We must defend South American democracy.

ANSWER—Most of the South American democracies are not republics; they are dictatorships. Their culture is European; their eyes are toward Europe, and Europe is a waiting market for their principal products. We already have surpluses of those products. We should confine our guarantees to the territory really vital to our defense—that north of the Amazon and Peru.

South American Trade Negligible.

FALLACY NO. 5—Dire results to our economy are forecast thru ruthless competition for the postwar trade of South America.

ANSWER—Our trade with South America is only one-tenth of our total foreign trade. In other words, South American trade accounts for one-half of 1 per cent of our national income. Its retention by force means spending several times as much.

British Push on in East Africa

Captions indicate important developments in fighting between British and Italians in East Africa, where the defenders are being pushed back.

RIVIERA CANCELS FLOWER BATTLES; FIGHTS FOR FOOD

Foreigners and French Line Up for Rations.

CANNES, France, Feb. 2 (AP).—Butter—not begonias—is the worry of the French Riviera this year as the time for the annual flower battles arrives and the villa dwellers are too busy standing in food lines to think about tourist attractions.

The flower battles which usually are held early in February with processions of decorated automobiles and showers of flowers were not even considered.

Normally about 50,000 American and English tourists would be toasting in the Mediterranean sun and shelling out money to croupiers in the casinos.

Hotels One-Fifth Filled.

Now there are about 4,000 foreigners, most of them Englishmen, who are unable to leave and who are scrambling for rations and coal like every one else.

The casinos, except in Monte Carlo, are closed, the hotels are only a fifth filled, and the pretentious villas are empty.

Where shiny, sleek automobiles from the United States and England used to stand under the watchful eyes of uniformed flunkeys are now only rows of bicycles under the doubtful care of a bellboy.

Nightlife has disappeared and one confirmed Riviera resident remarked plaintively, "I haven't had my dinner jacket on in months."

Residents Stand in Line.

Residents now are standing in line for hours since everybody is required to appear personally for his 100 grams [3½ ounces] of butter, 50 grams of cheese, and one egg.

Still anchored in Riviera ports as residences of their owners are the yachts of Prince Andre of Greece, uncle of Greek King George II., who had his windows battened down for the cold weather, and the former khedive of Egypt, Abbas Halmi, who lives on his rations and asks no favors.

The rectangle on this map indicates the area covered by the larger map.

FRIEND AND FOE OF DICTATOR BILL TO DEBATE TODAY

Wood Faces Ex-Senator in Hotel at Noon.

President Roosevelt's war dictatorship bill will be debated at a luncheon meeting today in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Sherman by the leaders of two groups battling for and against the measure. The meeting will open at 1 p. m.

The speakers, each limited to 25 minutes, will be Gen. Robert E. Wood, acting national chairman of the America First committee, and former Senator Ernest W. Gibson of Vermont, national chairman of the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies. A capacity audience of 1,250 persons is expected to hear the debate, sponsored by Advertising Men's Post No. 38 of the American Legion. The debate will be broadcast over station WAAF.

Postpones Senate Appearance.

Gen. Wood postponed his appearance before the senate foreign relations committee until tomorrow to oppose Gibson at today's luncheon.

America First headquarters issued statements yesterday by six senators from the farm states, all warning their constituents of the grave dangers of war abroad and dictatorship at home if the administration's war bill passes.

The senators are Wayland Brooks [R., Ill.], Robert M. La Follette [Prog., Wis.], Bennett Champ Clark [D., Mo.], Gerald P. Nye [R., N. D.], Arthur Capper [R., Kas.], and Robert A. Taft [R., O.].

Their statements follow:

SENATOR BROOKS—This bill is another step likely to make us voluntary active participants in the present war. Its passage would give the President power under the guise of national defense to establish a government at home by executive edict or order. It is the award of war powers to the executive in times of peace and dangerously leads us toward war.

SENATOR LA FOLLETTE—It is a bold attempt to create a dictatorship to govern our future foreign policy. Once this bill becomes law congress will function only as a rubber stamp. Here is a proposal to import the European war to our shores.

War and Dictatorship.

SENATOR CLARK—The bill indicates war abroad and dictatorship at home. If America goes to war the farmers and laborers will pay the bill. The bill will bring something the like of which the world has never seen.

SENATOR NYE—The present emergency, however great now, does not compare with the emergency that will be visited upon the people of the United States if the President is given what he asks in the pending lend-lease bill. The bill provides for the divorcement by congress, as representatives of the people, of all its powers.

SENATOR CAPPER—I am against the lend-lease bill as I think it gives the President dangerous powers and it will lead to war. Congress should not be asked to surrender the powers given to it by the constitution. I shall insist on necessary amendments that will eliminate many of the dangerous provisions of the bill.

SENATOR TAFT—The lend-lease bill authorizes the President to involve us in the war if he sees fit to do so and to give away our army and navy equipment to any nation he favors. No congress except a rubber stamp would delegate its constitutional power to declare war and fix the size of the army and navy. The American farmer not only is determined to stay out of foreign wars, but he knows how disastrous war always is to the interests of agriculture.

GROUND HOG DAY IS CLOUDY, AND SO IS A TIMEWORN ISSUE

Ground hog weather report, guaranteed to please:

FOR BELIEVERS—The Ground Hog Advancement and Cultural society announced that the flowers that bloom in the spring, hey-hey, will be popping out any time now. J. Ground Hog, the society's observer, took his annual Ground Hog day walk yesterday, but never at any time saw his shadow. He then retired to pack his things, for spring's on the way and he wants to be out to enjoy it.

FOR SKEPTICS—Gordon Pearsall, curator of the forest preserve Trailside museum, said the only ground hogs that weren't hibernating yesterday were professionals living in zoos who pose for pictures and issue fake weather reports. C. A. Donnel, the weather man, when asked if the ground hog test for early spring is certain, authorized this statement: "Bah!"

MOTHERS' MARCH ON WASHINGTON GATHERS FORCE

Leaders of the Mothers' Crusade to Defeat Bill 1776 said yesterday they had received hundreds of telephone calls requesting information on the group's plan to send 5,000 mothers to Washington to lobby against the administration's dictator measure.

Mothers wishing to join in the march were urged to telephone loop headquarters of the organization at Harrison 3567 or south side headquarters at Prospect 3991. Offices are in room 733 at 53 West Jackson street and at 6209 South Laflin street.

A committee of five women is in charge of the drive. They are Mrs. Thomas Keefe, 6209 South Laflin street; Mrs. Elizabeth Dilling, 545 Essex road, Kenilworth; Mrs. G. M. Van Hyning, 6210 Greenwood avenue; Mrs. Helen Wetherall, 1216 North Menard avenue; and Mrs. H. A. Bothfeld, 5632 North Rockwell street.

The Inquiring Reporter Asks: 'Do You Favor Our Getting in the European War?'

CITIZENS OUTLINE THEIR VIEWS ON NATIONAL POLICY

Majority Say We Should Shun the Conflict.

Miss Elisabeth L. MacHatton, 4900 Blackstone avenue—I do not. I think we should aid Britain as much as we can without getting involved, but the aid should stop short of war. I don't know whether we will stay out, but we should.

Steve Kosifas, 4547 Justine street, assistant district manager for insurance company—Absolutely not. I would like to see England win the war, but I'd like to see her do it without military assistance from this country. We can't afford to get in it.

Lester Regione, 5234 Peoria street, assistant manager for insurance company—No. The United States will find it to its best interest to stay out. How are we to stay out? I don't know; that's for the experts. But I don't think the country wants to go to war.

Miss Theresa Byrne, 1311 East 53d street—I don't believe this country should think of becoming involved in a foreign war so long as we have so many domestic problems that require attention. Let's make war on our own problems and stay out of Europe.

Frank McCune, 1539 East 53d street, barber—I don't see why some people think this country is in so much danger that we have to go to war. If Hitler can't get across 22 miles of water, how is he going to get his army to the United States?

Louis Rizzo, 1539 East 53d street, barber—We ought to stay out. We can serve our own interests best that way. It will be a fine thing if public opinion can influence people with the power to get us into war to keep us out.

Mrs. Peter McIntyre, 5258 Drexel boulevard—No. This country is in a difficult position, tho. Nearly every one wants England to win and wants to give her aid. I don't see how we can give more aid without getting involved, but if Britain loses we may be drawn in.

Mrs. Lorraine Grundwag, 5720 Wayne avenue, stenographer—No. We shouldn't get into the European war or any other war unless we are threatened by an invader. We should mind our own business. We've got plenty to do over here without going into war.

Lawrence Mullany, 4506 West End avenue, insurance adjuster—I don't know. It's up to the leaders of our nation to decide our policy. They should know what's best. I have faith in their ability to do what is right for the country.

Andrew Short, 1607 East 68th street, elevator starter—No. I believe in helping Britain, but not in getting into war, because that would waste our men. We should save them for our own defense. There's no telling when we will be attacked over here.

Robert Muir, 6914 Dante avenue, accountant—No. We should give all possible aid to Britain but send no men. This is not a war of man power, but a mechanized war. We should use our resources to make more machines and send them to England.

Fred Mills, 2815 North Leavitt street, cab starter—Yes. England has always been our front line. Germany wants to dominate the world and I think that without England's help we're sunk. Germany won't stop until she's conquered every country in the world.

Miss Maureen Reitz, 7554 North Oakley avenue, receptionist—No. Germany is doing to England exactly what England did to her in the last war. Germany said then that she would get back all she lost. However, I think Hitler is too much of a ruthless dictator.

Charles Post, 121 West Maple street, telegraph messenger—No. The last war put us in the hole. There was so much depression that we're just getting out of it. Another war and we'd never get out. We must not enter the war for these reasons.

Miss Rose Togami, 716 North Clark street, typist—No. We shouldn't go over there. We belong at home getting ready in case some one should attack us. Don't think that because I look Japanese that I am. I am an American, born and educated here.

David Brandon, 5049 South Park way, chauffeur—No. We should stay out of the European war if we can. But if we can't, we should go in there full force. We've got the power to really mop up if there's no other way out.

Loretta Wells, 915 Wilson avenue, stenographer—We should not get into war or aid any belligerent nation now. The time for us to be of help is when the war is over and there are thousands of hungry and wounded across the ocean. Giving aid now might drag us into the war.

Charles Sumner, 4625 North Racine avenue, section manager of loop department store—I favor giving Britain all aid we can and, if necessary, sending of an expeditionary force. I think we should do everything to keep Hitler out of this country, and our first line of defense is Britain.

Fred G. Litsinger, 925 Jackson boulevard, automobile dealer—I do not favor American participation. Altho I would like to see nothing done to involve our navy or merchant marine, I believe we should help England all we can with funds and materials.

R. J. Conrad, Milwaukee, Wis.—Absolutely not. I'll go as far as you like with aid to Britain. If the situation demanded it, we would not be wrong in using American ships to get food and supplies to the English. But we should not supply men.

L. H. Van DanAcker, 6756 Crandon avenue, manager of production planning, Armour & Co.—So far as sending masses of men, no. I do believe we should aid Britain, however; perhaps to the extent of sending technical men such as pilots, and maybe the navy.

Miss Edna Leesley, 10201 Leavitt street—America's forces should be used only for defense. I believe in helping Britain. If it appears that she can survive only with the aid of American troops, we may have to change our attitude about sending troops.

Jack Baron, 3913 West 14th street, manager of men's furnishings store—The best thing we ever did is the draft program. There is no need to send the men we are training to Europe, however. We can aid with guns, ammunition, warships, planes, and money.

Al Pavlick, 3705 Potomac avenue, red cap—Who is it up to, the men or the women? I was in the last one, and I don't want to see another one. If I had my way, we would stay as far from Europe's trouble as we can.

Vito Rometo, 823 South Paulina street, maintenance man—I don't like to see this country head for the sort of trouble we got with the last war. I like this country as it is. We shouldn't start the same business over here they have in Europe.

Helen Brudny, 6201 South Whipple street, high school sophomore—We should not get into the war unless we are attacked. I'm glad we are sending ammunition to England, but I hope we don't send so much that there won't be enough for our men here.

Robert Wesche, 2025 Belmont avenue, electrical assembly line worker—We should put a stop to things over there without entering the war. If it can't be done that way, then we should send men. I believe Britain's defense is ours, and I'm willing to serve.

Wesley Brown, 710 Mulford street, Evanston, police traffic sergeant—We will get in eventually, and the longer we delay the harder it will be to win. I'd rather see Americans in Europe with families home than have them in the predicament of the British, who don't know if their families are safe.

Mrs. Albert Lucius, 10201 Leavitt street—The only circumstance under which this country should go to war is in defense of our own land against an aggressor. I favor as much aid to Britain as we can give without getting ourselves involved.

Harry Braus, 3417 Fir street, Indiana Harbor, Ind., chemist—There seems to be a prevalent notion that the European conflict is a struggle to establish a new order, the have-not's fighting the have's. This is propaganda. I do not favor going to war.

M. C. Heidtmen, 1008 Becker street, Hammond, Ind., department store manager for men's furnishings—I was in the last war, and I saw enough. We have nothing to win and everything to lose by going over there. I don't believe the Germans are coming.

L. F. Harris, Kirkwood, Mo., sales manager—We have too many vital interests here at home to get any more mixed up with the war than we are now. I think aid to Britain is fine, up to the point of getting actively involved in war.

Miss Frances Natale, 1331 South Sawyer avenue, singer—We should mind our own business and let democracy stay in the United States. What did we get out of the last war but wounded men and widows? Our only job is to prepare to defend this country.

Mrs. Olive Johnson, 7809 Essex avenue, housewife—I believe something has to be done. By helping Britain we are helping ourselves. I don't favor sending an expeditionary force unless we are attacked in the Pacific. My husband's of draft age, and I'm glad he is.

Arthur F. Dickelman, 1104 Green Bay road, Highland Park, furniture store manager—No. I was in the 33d division infantry in France for 27 months the last time, and I agree with Joseph Kennedy that if we must fight, we should fight in our own back yard.

John Rastenis, 4653 South Rockwell street, high school senior—We should not get into the war because, according to history, England has always been against true democracy. She is only using the word to drag us in. We should strive to prepare ourselves.

Corporal Quayle Mumford, 1003 Davis street, Evanston, company clerk, 33d division, Illinois National Guard—Yes. We can fight much more effectively now than when we are alone in a hostile world without allies. Eventually we shall have to fight, anyhow.

James McIntyre, 1000 Linden avenue, Oak Park, Northwestern university senior—No. I say this because I think the economic repercussions that would follow Nazi control of Europe would be far less devastating than those which would naturally follow if we were involved in war.

Miss Marie Lehn, 722 Clark street, Evanston, beauty shop manager—I have no son to give, and I have no right to ask that somebody else's son be sent to Europe. I don't think we should send any of our boys over there.

Mrs. M. S. Schwartz, 3400 Douglas boulevard—If we have to help Britain, we should. But I don't think we should go so far as to get involved in war. Whatever decision the government makes would be all right, I suppose. But nobody wants war

V. R. La Belle, 7721 Burnham avenue, city employé—I'm not in favor of getting involved in Europe's troubles. We can stay out by not going any further with our aid than we have already gone. Certainly we are in no danger of physical invasion.

Joseph Schwaller, 5324 South Fairfield avenue, high school senior—It seems silly to be talking about getting into the European war. We have no bone to pick over there, and Hitler isn't coming over here. Roosevelt is an alarmist, and he's spending too much.

F. E. Nelson, 9640 53d avenue, Oak Lawn, salesman—I don't think we should send men to help Britain. But we should help materially as much as we can without endangering our own defense. Britain and America are democracy's last strongholds.

Mrs. Fred Wagoner, 7656 Coles avenue, housewife—America comes first. We should think of the safety of our own country and build machinery and train soldiers as fast as we can, before we meddle in other affairs. Why sacrifice Americans on foreign soil?

Mrs. Benjamin Carlton, 1642 East 70th street, housewife—I don't approve of sending American men to fight the European battle. Britain's defeat would affect us, and we should continue to send aid. But we should keep enough equipment here to train men.

Arthur Hillenbrand, 4100 South Albany avenue, neon sign maintenance man—Hitler won't be over here, so we have nothing to fear from him. Britain will defeat him. I don't object to selling the English arms, but I don't mean loaning. Britain should pay.

Joseph Michels, 840 East 89th place, electrical assembly line worker—As far as I can see Britain isn't going to win this war unless we help her. I think we should, as much as we can, without dragging ourselves into it. I wouldn't fight in any other country.

Mrs. I. C. Prouty, 7751 Clyde avenue, housewife—I don't approve of getting into war. If the Germans come over here, then we can fight. It's all right to aid Britain on a cash and carry basis but we should not give her things we may need eventually.

Miss Lois Gmur, 5814 Huron street, office worker—America should go to war only to defend her territory. It's costing plenty the way it is, and the price rises if we enter the war. The biggest cost, of course, is in lives. We should stay out.

E. R. Langdon, 7335 South Rockwell street, drill press operator — We should be in the war now. We'll be in it, anyway, if England is defeated. We should get over there and clean it up as soon as possible. Hitler won't overlook a rich country like ours.

Mary Dipietro, 6211 South Whipple street, high school sophomore — We should stay out. It's all right to help Britain by sending munitions because by helping her we are helping ourselves. But there's no need to send over our brothers and fathers.

Mrs. J. W. Kelly, 7335 South Rockwell street, housewife—The ghosts of the boys of 1918 are still hanging over our shoulders. There is no need to cause the same suffering again. We should train our men for defense and give England material aid, but that's all.

Roman Semeniuk, 6207 Bishop street, railroad brakeman—I don't like the British, and I don't see any reason for helping them. It's good business to sell them what they need, cash and carry. We should put guns on our borders and stick behind them.

William Herron, 7042 South Wolcott avenue, steel worker—When you let manufacturers run your country you get into war. It looks like that's what we're doing again. This isn't our battle, nor the last fight for democracy. If we aid Britain she'll drag us in.

David Berger, 1338 South Albany avenue, shoe salesman—I favor getting into the war. If we don't help Britain, the war will spread over here. Britain won't be defeated as long as we are behind her. We should send men, munitions, everything as fast as possible.

Mrs. Anthony Conrad, 1322 Brummel street, Evanston, cashier—No. I don't think we should send our boys over to get shot up. I believe in sending supplies, but not men until we absolutely have to—if that time ever comes.

Louis Goldman, 1510 South Albany avenue, traveling salesman—This is not our fight, and we should stay out. I don't believe in that propaganda that if Britain is defeated the war will be over here. We have enough to do preparing our men to fight over here.

Morris I. Minov, 4739 North Central Park avenue, druggist—I approve of getting into the war. It's a fight between totalitarianism and democracy, and Britain and the United States are left to defend the latter. If we don't get in Britain will be defeated.

Miss Helen Berner, 4659 Drexel boulevard, switchboard operator—The slogan, "Save the World for Democracy," is not just an empty phrase this time. It's true, and we should help England with everything short of war. But we shouldn't send men.

Dr. William Rothman, 5656 Washington boulevard, physician and surgeon — Of course, we shouldn't get into the European war. Why? What have we to do with Europe? Let's mind our own business. It's nonsense that we'd be defeated if Britain is.

Dr. Michael C. Kessler, 3152 Roosevelt road, eye specialist — I don't favor getting into war. Why become involved in somebody else's fight? I believe in giving Britain munitions, but I don't intend to give her myself. Our aid should be in gifts.

Mary Rocco, 15 North Mayfield avenue, salesgirl — If it helps us, we should. If it doesn't, we shouldn't. I can't see how it will help. I have a brother in the army and my boy friend is leaving for camp soon, so I wouldn't like for us to go to war.

J. W. Sharp, Springfield, Ill., railroad flagman—I don't think we will get into the war. The American people have enough sense to realize that Europe has made a bad mistake. There is no need of our getting into war. What would we gain?

George N. Peterson, 2038 Hawthorne lane, Evanston, furniture packer—No. If we have to fight, let's do it here. I have a son who is a policeman, and I don't want him and other boys killed in Europe fighting somebody else's war.

Miss Esther Nettis, 419 South Central avenue, bookkeeper—Hitler won't be over here for several generations, so this is not our fight. We should assist Britain in any way possible short of war. It's important to the world that the British win this war.

Harry Nemenoff, 2701 Evergreen avenue, salesman—I believe in the Roosevelt lease-lend plan, and I believe in giving Britain money also, if it's necessary. It's not a question of sending men. This is not an infantry war. It's a mechanized war

Mrs. Stanley Pearson, 9334 Calumet avenue, housewife — The European conflict is none of our doing or business. We should aid Britain as much as we can without endangering our own neutrality or defense. I think the President is very close to war.

Milt Liss, 146 North Parkside avenue, bakery manager—I don't think we should get into the war. I'm married, and I know I wouldn't like to go abroad to fight. But I do think we should give all the aid we can short of sending an expeditionary force.

George Ries, 4322 North Damen avenue, butcher—I don't think we should get involved until we're forced into it. There is nothing to make us get in as far as I can see. Aid to Britain is fine, if it is in materials and not men. I approve of conscription here.

Mrs. Lora Jurgesen, 3842 Alta Vista terrace, food demonstrator — People here misunderstand the English. They think the English are snobs, but they are as democratic as we are. We should help them as much as we can. I don't think we need to send men.

Mrs. Allen Pederson, 2423 North Mozart street, housewife—War is too remote to consider. If it weren't for capitalists, there wouldn't be as much propaganda as there is today. I believe as a related nation we should send aid to Britain but not as gifts.

Mrs. A. R. Schneider, 3402 Douglas boulevard—Why do you ask that? What makes you think we are about to get into war? It's wrong to project that thought into the minds of people. There is no basis for assuming that we are about to go to war.

BERLIN GUESSES ON NEXT SMASH BY 'BIGGER ARMY'

Estimate Nazis' Forces Up to 11,000,000.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 2.—Following Adolf Hitler's recent speech on the anniversary of the Nazis' rise to power, in which he said his armies were greater than ever before, discussion of where and how he plans to use the forces has again become the order of the day.

Foreign observers here estimate that the number of Germans called to the colors is at least as big as it was in the world war. If one includes the men of the Schutzstaffel [Hitler guards] and the Storm Troopers, and in the labor and construction services, they say, the figure is even bigger.

The total of course is a secret. But after Hitler's speech many of his followers engaged in heated arguments on the size of the armies and the auxiliary forces. Some claimed the total was at least 11 millions, while others put it at 8 millions.

Calm Hints at New Blow.

One must bear in mind that this is a "totalitarian war" in which workers are referred to as the "soldiers of labor" and the civilian population is organized systematically to support the war effort.

A year ago, before the blitzkriegs in Norway, Holland, Belgium, and France, Europe went thru a period of comparative war quiet. Today Europe knows the periods of relative calm are being used to prepare new moves.

The center of interest now is the Mediterranean. The German air force that established itself in bases in Italy is trying to strike telling blows at British naval units "bottled up in the Mediterranean."

Little has been said about the Italian navy in recent weeks. It is expected the Italian fleet will continue to keep out of the battle line until the German and Italian air forces have weakened the British naval forces in the Mediterranean. If this plan succeeds, the Germans and the Italians will be able to send reinforcements to northern Africa to fulfill Hitler's promise that every square mile of land his partner [Mussolini] has lost will be reconquered.

Watch Mediterranean War.

The importance of the battle in the Mediterranean between authoritarian air forces and the English naval and air forces must not be underestimated. Developments in southeast Europe and in the battle of England itself are declared to hinge on the outcome.

In the southeast, German negotiations with Bulgaria remain shrouded in mystery. If Hitler decides to take energetic steps to help Mussolini obtain the bases he wants in Greece and in the Dodecanese Islands the simplest way would be to send some of the many troops he has in Rumania thru Bulgaria into Greece. German troops could also be sent thru the Adriatic sea into Albania.

Strong German forces are along the Black sea in Rumania. They could be used if a conflict with Turkey developed. Those who assert that relations between Germany and Russia are not so friendly as both Moscow and Berlin say, attach special importance to a German statement that motorization of the German armed forces has been continued at top speed.

Still Distrust French.

If we switch to the west, we find three-fifths of France occupied by the Germans and a million and a half of France's men prisoners, working in Germany.

Distrust of what is happening in unoccupied France remains strong among the Nazis. How much sympathy the chief of the "Free French" forces, Gen. Charles de Gaulle, enjoys in France is discussed with great earnestness.

Finally, if we look toward England and compare developments in the battle of England with reports in the German press and Nazi circles, one may divide this problem into two parts—the German blockade of England and the possible invasion of the country. With French Atlantic ports in the hands of the Germans, German naval and air raiders can reach far westward.

Nazi Ships Coming Home.

German vessels in foreign ports are beginning to make new efforts to reach their home ports, presumably to take part in what the Germans believe may prove the "final phase of the battle of England."

Berlin has had no air raids since Dec. 21, but the people are convinced that when the worst cold is over big raids will take place. They are preparing for them.

PLEDGES CANADA WILL SEND GREAT FORCE OVERSEAS

Premier Tells Plans for 1941; Asks Savings.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 2 (AP).—Movement overseas of a great army of airmen, infantry, and armored units in 1941 was promised tonight by Canadian Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King in a broadcast supporting the February war savings campaign.

"There are many indications that, within a very short while, the enemy will make a tremendous effort to destroy the British commonwealth by a series of smashing blows of unprecedented fury," the prime minister said.

As part of Canada's effort to meet this, he outlined as objectives for 1941:

Provision of 25 new air squadrons, "identified as Canadian," from graduates of the British commonwealth air training plan, for service overseas.

Increase in Navy.

Present strength of 36,000 men in the air training plan to be doubled, and home operations strengthened.

Increase of the Royal Canadian navy to 413 ships and 26,920 men by March 31, 1942, compared with present strength of 175 ships and 15,319 men.

Dispatch overseas, in successive formations, of the following:

The balance of the corps troops for the Canadian corps of two divisions now in England.

An army tank brigade for service with the Canadian corps.

The 3d Canadian division with its complement of corps troops.

A Canadian armored division.

Increase in Production.

The prime minister said a "vast increase in production in war equipment and supplies has been arranged." Canada would concentrate on making for Britain those things which the United States was not making, such as tanks, small arms, Bren guns, aircraft machine guns, and antitank guns and ammunition for them.

He said there was "complete agreement between the British and Canadian governments" on these plans, and the new measures were being timed to fit into the British program.

Princess Royal of England Pleads for Blood Donors

LONDON, Feb. 2 (AP).—Mary, princess royal of England, stressed today the need for well filled blood banks when she made a broadcast launching a campaign at Leeds for 100,000 blood donors. The princess said the campaign, an extension of a drive in London, would be extended to other parts of the country.

GREEKS CAPTURE MOUNTAIN RANGE TEN MILES LONG

Seize 270 Italians and Many of Their Guns.

ATHENS, Feb. 2 (AP).—Greek soldiers fighting what their official spokesman called a "really heroic" action captured an important mountain range about 10 miles long north of Klisura today, it was reported tonight.

The spokesman said that 270 prisoners, belonging mostly to units which arrived in Albania last month, were seized along with large quantities of machine guns, automatic rifles, and other materials not yet counted.

The spokesman added that Italian planes did not display any important activity during the day and the Fascist troops concentrated on consolidating and fortifying new positions to which they had withdrawn.

Coastal Artillery Duel.

The Greek high command earlier told of fighting which persisted on a small scale despite heavy rain and mist. An artillery duel on the coast was reported.

British airmen aiding their Greek allies were active also despite the weather. The R. A. F. reported another raid yesterday on Valona, important southern Albanian port held by the Italians.

The R. A. F. said warehouses, a munition dump, and a timber depot in Valona were "effectively bombed." It added that antiaircraft fire was intense but the bombers flew low and machine gunned an Italian battery before returning safely to their base.

The Greek ministry of home security reported air raid casualties during the third month of the war against Italy totaled 67 civilian dead and 93 civilian wounded. The ministry said that in the month ending Jan. 28 160 homes and 50 refugee huts were destroyed and "about 300" were damaged.

Tepeleni Nearly Evacuated.

BITOLJ, Jugo-Slavia, Feb. 2 (AP).—The Italians have almost finished the evacuation of Tepeleni, Albania, and are burning the last stores which they have been unable to move, frontier advices reported tonight.

Tepeleni is the next immediate big objective of the Greek troops in Albania and reports last week said the Fascists were abandoning the town.

Italians Report Patrol Actions.

ROME, Feb. 2 (AP).—The Italian high command today reported only patrol action on the Albanian front, but the communique said "we captured prisoners and many arms abandoned by one enemy group defeated in recent days." It was ascertained, the communique said, "that the enemy lost 200 dead, including three officers, in the Tomoizza valley sector alone."

BANDIT BEATS GAS STATION WORKER.

Bernard Schwimmer, attendant at a gasoline station at Grand avenue and Augusta boulevard, was beaten yesterday by an armed bandit who took $18.

Britain Argues Over Schemes for New Order After the War

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 2.—The great discussion on a new order for Britain seemingly is getting no place fast but continues to be the general topic of the public, press, and government spokesmen. Every one is agreed that the new order must afford equal social and educational rights to all, but how this is going to be done still is an argued point.

Prime Minister Churchill has a program for what he calls "a number of practical steps which are indispensable if our country is to move forward."

Clement R. Attlee, former leader of the Labor opposition in the house of commons and now lord privy seal, holds to his belief in the traditional parliamentary system and expresses the hope that "after the war we shall again have those healthy differences of opinion which are the life blood of democracy."

Envisage Labor Government.

Minister of Labor Ernest Bevin and Arthur Greenwood, minister for postwar reconstruction, envisage, after the war, a great government nationalization scheme of land, industry, and transport under an overwhelmingly powerful Labor government.

The board of education already is extending the educational opportunities which Churchill promised. J. C. Ede, parliamentary secretary of the board of education, stated that the board intends to "further Churchill's policy of 'establishing a state society where the advantages and privileges which hitherto have been enjoyed only by the few shall be more widely shared by the men and youth of the nation as a whole.'"

The New Leader, Independent Labor party weekly, demanded that "if labor is conscripted, wealth must be conscripted." It said that when Bevin's industrial conscription plan is put into effect, the "only theoretical difference" between Britain and Nazi-Fascist economy will be that "free trade unions exist in Britain while Germany and Italy have labor front organizations."

A Resort in a Crisis.

The New Leader argued that "the economic form of Fascism is not the result of the machinations of an 'evil man,' whether Hitler or Mussolini, but the inevitable resort of the capitalist class in a crisis. Italy moved toward the corporate state when workers began to seize factories; Germany when the political and industrial strength of the workers threatened the capitalist system. Britain moves toward it when capitalism is in the crisis of war."

The editor of the Weekly Review wrote an open letter to Greenwood, saying he hoped Greenwood would not advocate that the people of England make the "new order for themselves under a labor government with the backing of strong trade unions and highly developed social services." Such an order, he said, would not be new and would not be "made by the people."

"Genuine Reconstruction."

"You will have to bring about genuine reconstruction and that can be done only by extending ownership to the people," he declared. "Ownership begins with the land, and ownership is the only real means thru which man is able to make a new order for himself," he said.

Reynold's News urged drastic government action "to clip the wings of land speculators buying up bombed sites." It urged a "tax on land values or, better still, nationalization of land."

The periodical Time and Tide opposes the proposal to prolong the present parliament for three years after the war.

"The parliament has been long in the harness and cannot be said to be truly representative," the periodical contended. "It is essential for the government to go to the country directly when the war is over and ask continuance of support before it attempts to put a peacetime program into action."

It warned that prolongation of parliament after the war will be a deliberate attempt to "govern without a mandate."

BRITISH ASSAULT 'INVASION COAST' IN DAYTIME RAIDS

Bomb Docks and Airports of France, Belgium.

LONDON, Feb. 2 (AP).—More than 100 British fighter planes and a large number of bombers crossed the English channel today in a new daylight aerial offensive against the coast from which the Nazis are expected to try to invade Britain in the spring.

To one observer on the coast the sky seemed to be "full of planes" and the bombers, protected by clouds of fighting planes, soared over the channel in brilliant sunshine, carrying high explosives to smash the German bases.

Three German fighting planes, encountered by the British, were shot down, while one British plane failed to return home, an air ministry communique said.

The air ministry news service, amplifying the communique, said one small force of bombers under heavy escort, attacked the Boulogne waterfront, bombing barges moored at the quayside, while the fighter planes kept the sky clear. The attack was made in the face of heavy antiaircraft fire.

Shot Down by American.

One of the German planes destroyed was shot down by a 28 year old American born flight lieutenant, the news service said, without naming him.

The daylight raids were a carryover from attacks of Saturday night and at dawn. In the night sortie, the air ministry said, "a small force of aircraft attacked the docks at Brest." That is the old French naval base from which the Germans now are believed to be operating submarines.

At dawn another small force of British bombers raided the docks at Boulogne, France, and Ostend, Belgium, an authoritative source said.

The attacks on the continental coast continued into midday. Lorient, Dunkirk, and Boulogne appeared to be the targets. Airdromes were raided at Ostend and Berck.

Small Activity Over Britain.

The Germans were active only in a small way over Britain. A German bomber flew over East Anglia, dropping eight bombs on the outskirts of a town. Most fell in an open field and there were no casualties.

England was free of night raiders up to a late hour.

London sources acknowledged there was "considerable air activity over the Strait of Dover during the day."

Nazi planes made minor daylight forays against the coastal region. In late afternoon a raider, pursued by two British machines, was sighted flying low over the northeastern coastal region.

Destroy Bombers on Ground.

BERLIN, Feb. 3, Monday (AP).—German bombers destroyed two grounded British bombers and scored hits on hangars at the Mildenhall, England, airport in the course of reconnaissance flights yesterday, informed sources said early today.

The raiders also scored numerous hits on a factory and warehouses in a southeast England town, it was reported. Trackage at the town's railway station was reported "heavily damaged."

Two merchantmen—4,000 and 3,000 tons each—were attacked from the air and set afire, the Germans claimed. The Germans did not disclose the location of this attack.

Another in a long series of shellings by German cannon on the channel coast was reported. The Nazi communique said "war-vital objectives" in southeast England were shelled by long range guns.

German sources announced seven civilians were killed yesterday by British bombers attacking Boulogne and surrounding territory in northern France.

Explorer to Wed

MRS. OSA JOHNSON.

New York, Feb. 2 (AP).—Mrs. Osa Johnson, widow of Martin Johnson, explorer and producer of wild animal films, will be married to Clark H. Getts, her business manager, at city hall tomorrow by Mayor Fiorello La Guardia.

As well known as her late husband for her love of exploration and adventure, Mrs. Johnson is the author of "I Married Adventure," which chronicles her life with the explorer.

Johnson died of injuries received in the crash of an air liner near Los Angeles Jan. 12, 1937. Mrs. Johnson was injured in the crash, too, but as soon as she recovered she continued a lecture tour.

TURKS SAY NAZIS MAY STRIKE SOON IN BALKAN AREA

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Feb. 2, (AP).—Turkish newspapers expressed concern today over the possibility that German troops, now concentrated in Hungary and Rumania, were on the verge of an offensive in the Balkans. One newspaper urged "unification of American and Turkish aims and desires."

The newspaper Catan, commenting on the visit to Ankara of Col. William J. Donovan, unofficial American observer, said "There are two duties for all peoples who believe in lasting peace and democracy: One to stand together against repetition of agression; Two, to organize a new world based on principles of humanity and formed without an element of revenge.

"The colonel can take this message to America from Turkey—'Turkey is prepared for continuous collaboration upon both these aims with the American nation'."

BRITAIN TO TRY MASS FEEDING OF WELL-TO-DO

Admits All May Not Like the Same Dishes.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 2.—Efforts to introduce communal feeding to the better class homes will be made shortly by the ministry of food, it was learned tonight. The basic idea is to have 30 families in a street get together for the chief meal of the day so that shopping, cooking, serving, and cleaning up afterward can be pooled under one major operation instead of 30.

It is realized that the plan will be experimental, as personal snobbishness and differences in the taste of food and cooking all may make full coöperation impossible.

A Nation-wide Project.

Communal feeding now is spread all over the country. The London county council has 138 centers and Greater London more than 200.

It is estimated that 100,000 persons are fed in the centers daily. New ones are being installed here, in Liverpool, Sheffield, Coventry, Reading, and other places.

To insure that the fullest use is made of Britain's 5,000,000 private gardens, the minister of agriculture is appealing to owners to convert flower gardens into vegetable plots.

Want Foods That Can Be Stored.

The aim, it is said, is to raise much of the vegetables which can be stored for use next winter, such as potatoes, parsnips, beets, carrots, onions, turnips, leeks, kale, spinach, and broccoli.

The ministry warns against over planting of perishable produce, such as lettuce and spring cabbage.

Halifax to Make Speech; May Disclose War Aims

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2 (AP).—Viscount Halifax, the British ambassador, has arranged to make his first public speech in the United States this month. The speech is set tentatively for about Feb. 20 in New York. Sources close to the ambassador indicated that he may disclose Britain's war and peace aims.

"SHELTER CITIES" FOR WAR'S CHILD REFUGEES URGED BY PORTUGUESE

LISBON, Portugal, Feb. 2 (AP).—The influential newspaper Diario Noticias prominently displayed today an editorial urging that Portugal make herself the clearing center for relief for child victims of the European war.

The director of the paper, Augusto de Castro, offered his program in a front page editorial under a five column headline, "Let Us Save the Children, Victims of the War."

He suggested:

"Let us coördinate all efforts, from those of the esteemed international Red Cross down.

"Why do we not propose creation in all countries at war of 'shelter cities' where children exposed to immediate danger may take refuge?

"Why not ask and get establishment in Portugal of an international center for protection and distribution of children, authorized by the belligerent governments, and for food destined exclusively for charitable purposes?"

BELIEVES GLIDER ARMY WILL CARRY WAR TO ENGLAND

San Fernando, Cal., Feb. 2 (AP).—William Hawley Bowlus, glider manufacturer and pilot, predicts Germany will use thousands of 8 man gliders in an invasion of England.

Bowlus has been a soaring pilot since 1910, when, at the age of 14, he built his first glider. Many years later he set a record by remaining aloft in one for nine hours. "Some time ago," Bowlus said in an interview, "I learned that Germany was producing eight place gliders at the rate of 400 to 500 a month. She must have many thousands available today."

Here is the way Bowlus pictures a glider invasion of England:

"Starting from France, or even Germany, a powerful bomber will tow a train of 10 of the eight place gliders to an altitude of 20,000 feet. There they will be cut loose and glide silently in formation across the channel, hundreds at a time.

"Parachute troops are at a disadvantage in that they make good targets while slowly drifting down and they cannot carry full infantry equipment. Glider troops, on the other hand, can carry machine guns, ample ammunition, and food. A single bomber, towing 10 gliders, can start an entire machine gun company of 80 men on a silent cross channel glide."

WILLKIE VISITS BIRMINGHAM AND COVENTRY RUINS

Midlands Throngs Rush to Pat His Back.

BIRMINGHAM, England, Feb. 2 (AP).—Leaving nothing to the imagination, British officials showed Wendell L. Willkie in grim detail today the bomb horror of Coventry and Birmingham. He was given the first official details and damage list made available to an unofficial person here.

Willkie was greeted by enthusiastic crowds everywhere. At Birmingham all attempts at a formal reception were abandoned when crowds swarmed around his automobile and tried to shake his hand and pat him on the back. Willkie grinned and clasped scores of the outstretched hands.

Predicts Nazi Failure.

After staying overnight as the guest of Prime Minister Winston Churchill in the country, Willkie first visited Coventry in his excursion into the industrial Midlands.

He told the Lord Mayor that "any totalitarian attack either in America or Britain will fail against the common brotherhood of these countries."

Willkie toured the bombed area afoot after being greeted by a cheering crowd at the Council house.

Cathedral Spire 'Symbolic.'

Looking at the spire of Coventry cathedral rising out of the ruins of the rest of that famous structure, he shook his head and declared the spire stands "symbolic of the spirit here."

Stopping to gaze up at some windows remaining intact in bombed homes, some of which showed tiny American flags, Willkie said, "Your sacrifice is worth while because of the confidence it gave our people in you."

Coventry presented a weird sight. The people have deserted their wrecked homes, but their pet animals have stayed on. At nearly every bombed home a cat sits patiently in the ruins.

Willkie visited factories now operating, talked with workmen, and declared their spirit was superb.

Astonished at Birmingham.

Willkie said he was astonished at the scope of the damage in Birmingham, which he declared was as extensive in some ways as that at Coventry. He said damage in the Midlands impressed him as heavier than in the south but that "the reconstruction I have seen being put into operation is a perfect example of how a city can recover."

Willkie went to the home of Lord Derby, near Liverpool, to spend the night.

Tell Progress in Efforts to Refloat Manhattan

West Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 2 (AP).—Salvage crews appeared near success today in their efforts to refloat the grounded liner Manhattan from a sandbar nine miles north of here. F. O. Pontius, dockmaster at Palm Beach terminal, said three tugs, aided by an early morning tide, made considerable progress and that the big vessel continued to slide toward open sea throuout the day. The 24,000 ton steamer went aground Jan. 12.

MYSTERY STILL VEILS STATUS OF BERLIN AND VICHY

Hear Petain Aid Rebuffed in Seeking Conference.

VICHY, France, Feb. 2 (AP).—It was reported reliably today that Admiral Jean Darlan, minister of the navy, would leave Vichy for Paris by train early this afternoon and would return to Vichy with former Foreign Minister Pierre Laval.

CONFERENCES CALLED USELESS.

Associated Press dispatches from Berlin to Geneva, Switzerland, said yesterday that Admiral Darlan had sought unsuccessfully to confer with political leaders in Paris on "developments in occupied France."

The dispatches said that Admiral Darlan, who was reported in Vichy at the time, had been informed from Paris that such conferences were useless as long as the Vichy government had not "drawn clear conclusion from the present situation."

Admiral Darlan conferred with Chief of State Philippe Petain in Vichy late yesterday. A special train for him stood ready at the station, but it could not be learned whether it would leave.

Opposition Group Formed.

There was no confirmation of a report that Admiral Darlan would bring former Vice Premier and Foreign Minister Laval to Vichy from Paris.

Formation of a group opposed to Petain's French "National Union" committee of 51 was announced by radio in Paris Saturday. The announcement was accompanied by a violent attack on "the men of Vichy," and a warning that France must collaborate quickly and fully with Germany before its "victory over England."

The pro-Nazi group in Paris called itself the "People's committee" and favored complete collaboration with Germany.

Claim Thousands Want to Join.

A DNB, German official news agency, dispatch from Paris yesterday said there was "great public interest" in the formation of what the Germans called a society for "organization of France."

The agency said thousands of Frenchmen, including former national leaders and distinguished citizens, wished to join, and asserted that French organizations with a membership of 500,000 have offered to coöperate.

FRENCH SEE HOPE OF FOOD FROM U.S. IN ENVOY'S TALKS

Leahy Makes Study of Undernourishment.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, Feb. 2.—French hopes of obtaining food supplies from America, especially for young children, were raised today by reports that American Ambassador Admiral William D. Leahy has had a long discussion on the subject with Jacques Achard, French minister of food supplies.

Admiral Leahy.

Ambassador Leahy has been devoting special attention to the question of getting food supplies to France and has been conducting an inquiry into suffering from undernourishment which is being felt in France.

Might Call for Food Ships.

Nothing was announced as a result of the admiral's conference with Achard but it was expected he might recommend that the United States send a couple of ships to Marseilles. They would carry supplies of food and materials which are lacking here. They would alleviate distress, especially of mothers and children who now are being given vitamin pills to make up for lack of vitamins in the scanty food.

The French maintain that the obstacles against sending food—that it might fall into the hands of the Germans and thus make the British blockade less effective—are propaganda.

Food Not Taken by Germans.

This correspondent, who in recent weeks has visited nearly all sections of the unoccupied zone, can confirm that there is no evidence anywhere that the Germans requisition any food. In the first place the Germans have no machinery in the unoccupied area to do so.

In any case the French state that Red Cross agencies could distribute American supplies in the unoccupied zone, and committees, such as the Hoover committee in the last war, could do the same even in the occupied zone without fear of any German interference. All information available to this correspondent indicates that this is true and the only problem is to get such supplies past the English brockade.

DAME OF SARK SAFE ON ISLAND SEIZED BY NAZIS

LONDON, Feb. 2 (AP).—A five word message received in London today by Richard Beaumont announced that his mother, Mrs. Sibyl Collings Beaumont Hathaway, dame of Sark, and his stepfather, Robert Hathaway, were safe. It was the first news of the dame of Sark since the channel islands were occupied by the Germans.

Dame of Sark.

"Both well, Sibyl and Bob," the message said. It was sent by way of Berlin and New York.

Mrs. Hathaway, whose ancestors have ruled the island since 1852 under a charter granted by Queen Elizabeth in 1565, visited the United States in December, 1938. Her husband is a native of East Orange, N. J., was educated at Yale, and ruled with his wife as seigneur of Sark. The island lies 22 miles off the coast of France.

Sixteenth century laws were still observed on the island before the Germans came. There are [or were] no taxes, movies, billboards, automobiles, paved roads, or local newspapers. And it was reported there never had been a murder or a divorce there.

WAR CUTS SIZE OF GIFT CANDLES POPE RECEIVES

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 2 (AP).—Pope Pius XII. received scores of candles, reduced in size by wartime shortages of beeswax, in a colorful candlemas ceremony today. Candlemas, also known as the feast of the purification of the Virgin Mary, commemorates the presentation of Jesus at the temple. Usually the pope receives about 200 large candles nicely painted and tied in red and white silk with gold fringe. This year, however, because of the beeswax shortage, Pope Pius made known he would accept small candles with "equal pleasure."

Life Insurance Builds Morale...Helps Defense

'HINDSIGHT AND FORESIGHT'
a weekly column by
Holgar J. Johnson
President Institute of Life Insurance

I SAW some interesting figures the other day.

They showed that since 1900 the number of life insurance owners has increased six and a half times, to reach, in 1940, sixty-five million, approximately half the population of the country. The rate of increase has been about the same as that of telephone subscribers, not as fast as that of automobile owners and domestic electricity consumers.

JOHNSON

Life insurance, the telephone, the automobile and electricity have all come of age at about the same time, at about the same rate. They are now great forces in our national life.

The defense effort we are making, the greatest in our history, will inaugurate a period of business change. This will mean readjustment in many ways, certainly in the ways we spend our money. As more and more factories are given over to defense work, we may not be spending our money on many of the things we are accustomed to spend it on.

What effect will this have on the buying of life insurance? What effect should it have?

It is at times like this that life insurance can render its greatest service to the individual and to the nation.

And its contribution can be twofold. Increased purchases of life insurance would mean, of course, larger reserve funds to be placed in the conservative, basic investments that underlie production of all kinds. It would promote the industrial activity on which the wheels of defense must roll.

It would mean more than that. It would mean another powerful, solid support for the nation's morale—the morale that is born of a sense of security, of the knowledge that behind us stands personal and family protection that we can depend on, always, in our time of crisis.

FAKE CANADIAN AGENT EXPOSED; FACES U. S. QUIZ

Thomas E. Evanson, 5237 Harper avenue, will be turned over to immigration authorities today by police who said he has been posing as a representative of the Canadian government. Evanson was arrested Saturday night by Detectives Donald Coakley and Ray Giesler on a disorderly conduct charge brought by Mrs. Hugo Goodman, 5318 Cornell avenue. Mrs. Goodman said Evanson had been calling regularly on her daughter, Mrs. Madeline Holmes Krebbs, a widow, and that when she became suspicious of him he told her he was a cattle buyer for the Canadian government. A check of Canadian authorities here, Mrs. Goodman said, confirmed her suspicions that he was not a Canadian agent. Evanson's record shows that he was arrested in 1925 and received probation on a confidence game charge. He said he also had been arrested in 1929 in Indiana for passing a bad check. He claimed to be an American citizen, but in 1925 he gave his birthplace as Winnipeg, Canada.

Germans to Build Centers for Their Army in Norway

BERLIN, Feb. 2 (AP).—Permanent cultural and recreational centers for German soldiers will be built thruout Norway, it was disclosed today when propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels called on the nation to contribute. Adolf Hitler gave the fund one million marks [about $400,000]. The homes will be built in Norwegian towns where German soldiers are garrisoned.

DOG'S BARKING ROUTS BURGLAR.

The loud barking of Lady, a 3 year old fox terrier, routed a burglar last night who had broken into a dress shop at 2942 West 63d street.

The man from Mexico was a tough hombre to fit!

He was a big man, with dimensions to make a tailor tremble in his spats. And the challenge in his eye boded no good for this particular Manhattan clothing establishment.

"How," they asked him in the fitting room, "did you happen to come from Mexico to us?"

"It was your slogan," he confessed, "'They won't let you wear it unless it fits.' That got me."

"And where did you run into that?" asked the tailor. "In The New York Times, naturally," was the answer, "I read it every day!"

We don't claim coverage of the Mexican market—but this story has a moral: Times readers—more than 800,000 of them—will go out of their way to read their favorite paper, and to patronize its advertisers. And they have the money to make it worth while. . . . For example, a recent survey shows they purchased more than half of all the new cars sold in New York City!

A. F. OF L. CLAIMS TO HAVE LINED UP FORD EMPLOYES

Green Tells of Campaign 'Without Interference.'

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2 (AP).—President William Green tonight said the American Federation of Labor had organized "a majority" of the 60,000 production employés in the Ford Motor company's Lincoln and River Rouge plants at Detroit, Mich.

William Green.

Officials said the A. F. of L. had conducted a "quiet" organization drive, and that all details had been completed and charters issued. The locals, identified only by numbers, are what the A. F. of L. designates as "federal labor unions," chartered directly by the federation rather than by its affiliated United Automobile Workers of America union.

Forecasts Appeal to Board.

"The next step to be taken," Green said in a statement, "will be to establish collective bargaining and the recognition of these American Federation of Labor unions as collective bargaining agencies."

The C. I. O. branch of the United Automobile Workers of America union long has endeavored to organize the Ford employés, and at present claims a majority in the Lincoln plant. A C. I. O. request for a collective bargaining election in the Lincoln plant is pending before the National Labor Relations board.

Green's announcement that recognition of the A. F. of L. unions will be sought was taken by labor men to mean that the labor board will be asked to designate them as bargaining representatives of the Ford employés.

Lauds Company Attitude.

The C. I. O. has hurled repeated charges of antiunion practices against the Ford management but Green said of the federation's organizing efforts:

"The right of the production workers voluntarily to become members of a union of their own choosing, as provided for in the national labor relations act, was exercised freely without interference by the management of the Ford Motor company.

"Thousands of members of American Federation of Labor unions have been employed regularly by the Ford Motor company inside its plants ever since it was established. None of these employés ever was discriminated against by the management because of membership in American Federation of Labor unions."

"Inaccurate," Says C. I. O. Leader.

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 2 (AP).—Michael F. Widman Jr., director of the C. I. O. branch of the United Auto Workers union drive to organize Ford Motor company workers, tonight branded as "confused and inaccurate" a statement by President William Green that the American Federation of Labor had organized a "majority" of employés in Ford's Lincoln and River Rouge plants. Widman said that "what Green has in mind . . . is an effort to sell the A. F. of L. services to the Ford company as a nuisance value in an effort to hinder the C. I. O. campaign."

Battalion Fire Chief Hurt Battling $30,000 Blaze

Fire Chief Frank Donahue of the 16th battalion was injured yesterday while fighting a fire in a one story building at 530-40 East 47th street. The building was occupied by stores and a warehouse. Chief Donahue suffered a sprained ankle and was taken to the Chicago hospital. The blaze caused damage estimated at $30,000. An investigation into the cause was started.

Sues for Burns

ERIN O'BRIEN-MOORE.

New York, Feb. 2 [Special].—Erin O'Brien-Moore, whose stage and screen career came to an abrupt halt two years ago when a carelessly tossed match ignited her clothing, will go before Supreme Court Justice Peter Schmuck tomorrow in her suit for $25,000 damages.

The actress is suing the Lyons Chop house and Jack Lyons, proprietor. She was sitting in the restaurant the night of Jan. 22, 1939, when the match dropped on her filmy evening gown, setting it in flames.

For weeks her life was in danger. Last August, however, she was sufficiently recovered to play summer theater engagements.

NEGROES DEMAND EQUALITY IN U. S. DEFENSE LABORS

Chicago Group Calls National Parley.

The Chicago Council of Negro Organizations called last night for equality in the national defense program. Action was taken at a meeting in the Progressive Baptist church at 3700 La Salle street.

The council adopted this statement: "We, as Negroes, feel it would be better not to participate at all in national defense than to participate under a policy of segregation."

The delegates asked the government to give Negroes freedom to enlist in any branch of the armed forces.

Plan Washington Conference.

The council voted to sponsor a national colored conference on national defense, to be held in Washington, D. C., not later than Feb. 28. The council also voted to participate in the Fight for Democracy program, which contemplates special services in colored churches thruout the country on Feb. 16.

The council went on record as opposed to American participation in the war to aid England.

"Until America has adjusted her internal affairs," the council said, "so that she renders more than lip service to democracy, she would be of little assistance to England and would greatly endanger her own future prosperity. Uniformity of ideals, spirit, purpose and action are necessary to be achieved at home before we can venture into foreign warfare."

Seek Equality in Unions.

The delegates called upon labor unions to accord equality to Negroes, and asked that adult Negroes be given vocational training in industries essential to national defense. They also asked that Chicago high schools attended by Negroes be provided with vocational training facilities for the youths.

Mrs. Irene McCoy Gaines, president, said the delegates represented 75 groups with a membership of 200,000. More than 1,000 were present.

ARMY AND NAVY PILOTS MAY FLY AIR LINE'S SHIPS

Commercial Firm Facing Shortage of Men.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2 (AP).—The placing of army and navy flyers on air liners for advance training was reported under official study today as a means of meeting a prospective critical shortage of commercial pilots.

Suggested to the war and navy departments by officials of several lines as one of several possible measures to prevent curtailment of fast commercial transportation by defense demands, the proposal involved the use of military flyers only as co-pilots.

Cite Pan-American Training.

The plan was described as an adaptation of an existing arrangement by which Pan American Airways has undertaken the training of some 850 army cadets in flight navigation.

The air lines were described by some of their own spokesmen and by government officials as almost "frantic" over the prospective shortage of pilots.

Of some 2,000 commercial transport pilots, about 75 per cent ar army or navy reserve officers and official warning already has been served that a large proportion of these would be summoned to active duty within a few months.

Some Already in Service.

A number of pilots already have donned uniforms voluntarily because of military demands and the prospects of rapid advancement in the armed services.

Viewed as even more serious is that new transport pilots no longer may be recruited from flyers trained by the army and navy, thus drying up the principal source of the air lines' supply.

Clarence Fleming, vice president of the Transcontinental and Western System, said the air lines already were training substitutes, undertaking to qualify second pilots for chief pilot rating and taking other limited measures, but that these lacked much of being sufficient to meet prospective needs.

G. O. P. CHAIRMEN DECIDE TO WATCH WILLKIE CLOSELY

Parley Challenges 'Right' to Speak for Party.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Omaha, Neb., Feb. 2.—A policy of critical watchfulness toward Wendell L. Willkie, defeated candidate for President, emerged today from a meeting of Republican state chairmen and advisers from 14 midwest states. Willkie's right to represent the party was challenged despite the curb ordered on such talk by some eastern G. O. P. leaders.

A complete airing of "le affaire Willkie" was predicted several days ago by Bert Carpenter, Nebraska national committeeman, who declared that many G. O. P. leaders were angry about the spot on which the party was put by Willkie, a former Democrat. There were some telephone calls and Carpenter later said he was sorry he talked, and that the matter would not be brought up at the meeting here.

Martin Calls for Silence.

It has been learned that several state chairmen received calls from National Chairman Joseph W. Martin Jr. at Washington, cautioning them against "doing anything that might hurt the party." Martin also sent his secretary, Robinson McIlvaine, to the session here.

The first move to loosen the gag on Willkie talk was made by Ben L. Berve, Illinois state chairman, whose plane arrival was delayed by bad weather.

"I have seen published reports that higher-ups have ordered us not to talk about certain things," Berve said. "Who are these higher-ups and what right have they to dictate a gag rule? If vital issues are not to be discussed, I see no reason for further meetings."

It then was agreed that no subject would be barred. The session was closed to the press, but reporters were able to overhear some of the conversation.

"As far as I can see, Willkie should not be considered the titular head of the party," said Thomas Blaine, Oklahoma state chairman. "He is only a defeated candidate."

Right Never Established.

Another conferee declared that Willkie never had established his right to speak for Republicans.

"When Willkie, riding bicycles and singing songs in London, was told that the Young Republicans in convention at Des Moines were considering a resolution condemning him, he said he was not interested in it," Berve added. "The Young Republican leaders represent 1,500,000 votes. Must we go along with a man claiming to be our leader who thus expressed himself about Young Republicans?"

F. L. Gullickson, Wisconsin state chairman, was heard to defend Willkie by saying he knew him and liked him. Some one else asserted that Republicans cannot be sure—even now—what Willkie stands for, and suggested that leaders wait to learn more definitely what Willkie's policies really are. This apparently closed the discussion.

Opinion "Reserved."

The conferees refused to disclose anything further along this line, other than that Willkie had been discussed "with opinion reserved."

"All I can say is that Mr. Willkie's position in the party may be discussed further at the next midwest meeting in Indianapolis on March 21," said Robert Rennick, publicity man for the Illinois Republican committee, who was authorized to act as spokesman.

Also put over until the Indianapolis meeting was a proposed resolution demanding that a midwesterner familiar with G. O. P. organization be selected to succeed Chairman Martin, who is expected to resign March 24.

"If we're going to help the Republican party, it must have a chairman from the midwest," Blaine, the Oklahoma leader, said.

Galveston Quadruplets Take the Cake—and Eat It

Galveston, Tex., Feb. 2 [Special].—The Badgett quadruplets discovered today that the fellow who said you can't eat your cake and have it knew what he was talking about. Jeannette, Jeraldine, Joyce, and Joan, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Badgett, were 2 years old yesterday, and each was awarded a cake bearing two candles. All that was left at bedtime tonight were the candles and four little girls who weren't a bit hungry.

Plunges from Yacht

DOLORES DEL MAR.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 2 [Special].—Climaxing an all night drinking party, Dolores Del Mar, 29 years old, Hollywood night club dancer, drowned in the west basin at San Pedro early today when she leaped in the nude from the luxurious yacht of Arthur M. Hamburger, an assistant movie director and member of a wealthy Hollywood family.

Aboard the 65 foot yatch El Commandee at the time were Hamburger, Robert Tracy, an actor, and Miss Alyce Dern, night club entertainer and roommate of the dead girl. Police said members of the party admitted they had been drinking on the yacht "until the liquor ran out."

Police Lieutenant A. H. Peiros, who questioned Miss Dern and the two men aboard the yacht but did not take them to the police station for a formal statement, said the men told him they went to sleep in a cabin after the liquor supply gave out.

BOOKIE BUSINESS IS ON THE RUN, SAY OBSERVERS

Enemies Are Closing In and Profits Dwindle.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Persons considered competent to speak on the status of Chicago's handbook racket gravely asserted yesterday that there is no future in it for young men wishing to pile up fortunes in a hurry.

Authorities on the subject reported that only a few of the more daring and desperate of the downtown operators are limping along, living on hope.

Bertram J. Cahn, president of the Chicago Crime commission and a spokesman for the Chicago Association of Commerce, said his information is that the loop bookie business is dying if it is not dead.

Courtney Tells of Coöperation.

State's Attorney Courtney said his office was receiving coöperation from the police in making particular drives against the gambling houses operated by the Nitti syndicate and by Danny [Public Enemy] Stanton.

Police Commissioner Allman said he intends to raid handbooks over and over again.

These three men, on the occasion of a meeting in the office of Mayor Kelly shortly before Christmas, organized the drive to rid the city of Frank [The Enforcer] Nitti, Stanton, and others allied with the criminal syndicate that ruled the handbook racket. Mayor Kelly was in hearty accord with the program.

"I am sure the officials are keeping faith with us 100 per cent," said President Cahn yesterday. "This new system of the police seizing all money found in handbooks should be effective. The new practice of arresting patrons should discourage attendance at books and if those arrested are sent thru the bureau of identification better results might be obtained."

Other Officials Help.

Altho it was agreed local officials are competent to stamp out syndicate gambling without the help of state or federal officials, Attorney General George F. Barrett has said he will carry out the injunction program of his predecessor, John E. Cassidy. United States Attorney J. Albert Woll offered Courtney and Allman any help he can give.

After the disruption of the racing service empire formerly controled by Moses Annenberg, the Nitti gang jumped into the service department of the racing industry. The gang was reported also to have taken over a task formerly performed locally by William R. Skidmore, a "middle" man who faces trial Feb. 20 for failure to pay tax on several million dollars he is reported to have collected from gamblers.

The Nitti organization was said to have decided that "service" would be a good business after the government decided that the dissemination of racing information was not a violation of lottery laws.

A 19 YEAR OLD TAKES HARD WAY TO PROVE THAT HE'S NO SOFTIE

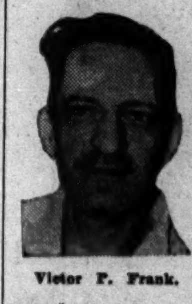
TED MORTON.
[A. P. Wirephoto.]

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 2 (AP).—Ted Morton, 19 year old print shop assistant, ran 34.09 miles in 13 hours and 29 minutes to win a $10 bet and convince Brig. Gen. E. L. Gruber of Fort Leavenworth that America's young men haven't been "living too soft a life."

Gruber made that charge last week in a speech which Morton heard. He bet two friends he could, without special training, run 34 miles in 7½ hours with one hour of rest for each hour of running. He started his marathon at 8 a. m. yesterday on a high school's 400 yard track. One hundred fifty laps later he collected the $10 and called for a steak dinner.

"I feel fine today," said young Morton. "And say, I hope the general hears about this."

LAWYER JAILED FOR COURT DEBT TO ASK RELEASE



Victor P. Frank.

Victor P. Frank, who has been in a debtor's cell in the county jail for six months, disclosed yesterday he has no intention of remaining there as a so-called forgotten man. He said he will ask his freedom soon on the ground the sentence is an indefinite one.

Frank, an attorney, is 49 years old and lived at 5200 Sheridan road with his invalid wife. Last Aug. 1 Judge John C. Lewe sent him to jail on a contempt of court citation for failing to produce $2,955 which Frank had collected from a foreclosure sale as a special commissioner of the Superior court. The money was part of a total court shortage of $5,569 of which Frank was accused.

Frank said yesterday he has outstanding the money to pay what he owes the court but cannot collect it while in jail.

TWIN 96 YEARS OLD.

Philo, Ill., Feb. 2 [Special].—Joseph Maddux will be 96 years old tomorrow. He is the survivor of the Philo twins, who were born Feb. 3, 1845, in New Holland, O., and came to Illinois in a covered wagon in 1868. Prior to the death of David Maddux, the other twin, on June 10, 1939, they were said to be the oldest male twins in the United States.

HOW TO GET A LOAN TO PAY YOUR DOCTOR BILL

You can get $100 for medical, dental or hospital expenses now if you can repay $6.43 a month for 20 months . . . No endorsers or guarantors needed . . . A quick, simple way to borrow for emergencies

HAVE unusual expenses caught you short of ready cash? Have you old bills that you must get paid? If you have a steady job, there's a simple way for you to borrow the cash you need. You may then repay your loan in convenient monthly installments.

Suppose that you need $100. Find this amount in the first column of the table. Then read across picking out the monthly payments you wish to make. Twelve monthly installments of $9.77 each, for instance, will repay a $100 loan in full. The cost of your loan, in this case, averages less than five cents a day.

You may prefer smaller payments. As little as $6.43 a month for twenty months will also repay a $100 loan. Note that the sooner you repay, the less your loan costs. You can borrow $25 for two months, for instance, for only 96c.

Simple to get a loan

All you do to apply for your loan is to acquaint us with your problem. Loans are made on furniture, car or note. It is unnecessary to bring friends or relatives to sign the loan papers with you. This spares you the embarrassment of asking outsiders to act as endorsers. We help you keep your money affairs private by not asking friends or relatives about your credit. Our service is planned so that you may borrow conveniently and simply—and repay in installments which fit your own income.

Borrow for less

Payments in the table include all charges at Household's rate of 2½% per month on that part of a balance not exceeding $100, and 2% per month on that part of a balance in excess of $100. This rate is less than the maximum prescribed by the Small Loan Law. Every customer gets the benefit of this rate—whether new customer or former borrower.

Fair Treatment

If you should get sick or lose your job while paying on your loan, we will show you every consideration. Last year we foreclosed on only one chattel mortgage for each 20,000 loans—an action taken then only as protection against fraud.

Please feel free to phone or visit us at any time. You will be under no obligation to borrow.

CHICAGO'S NEEDS: WHAT CITY HALL OFFICIALS THINK

Cite Airports, Transit and Blight Elimination.

What does Chicago need most to go ahead in 1941? What does your business need to go ahead? What can you do to help Chicago? What can Chicago do to help you? Leaders in Chicago business and public life are being asked these questions. The story below is another of a series giving the answers.

BY EDWARD WILSON.

Mayor Kelly and city council leaders, asked yesterday for their views on what is needed for Chicago's betterment, listed projects without which they asserted the city's progress will be retarded.

The following goals were named by Mayor Kelly as most important and in the main the aldermen agreed with him:

"1. Settle the traction problem and give the city a unified traction ordinance, and put the subway, now nearing completion, into operation. [The proposed traction ordinance is now being disputed by the city and traction interests.]

"2. Complete Chicago's airport facilities. That means the completion of the enlarged city airport; construction of a new airport terminal building and a renewed interest in the long proposed lake front or downtown airport.

"3. Eliminate the blighted areas. These steps are needed, the city leaders insisted, both to aid the city industrially and to stop the exodus of families to the suburbs and country towns.

"4. Construct superhighways."

"City Must Go Forward."

Mayor Kelly said: "Those projects completed will make Chicago the greatest city in the world. Uncompleted, the city will suffer. It must go forward."

"Besides improving the airport, the railroads should get busy and improve some of the obsolete stations in the city," the mayor continued. "We will have the finest and biggest airport and terminal in the world and our railroads should not lag behind. "We should start work now towards a downtown airport. It is accepted that we will need another airport within five years."

Ald. James B. Bowler [25th], dean of the city council, said: "We need a lake front airport. But we also need to remedy the blight in the city. I suggest we use forest preserve money to buy that land and recreate it into beauty spots. That alone will keep people from moving away and letting a dry rot eat out what were once tax paying communities."

Others Tell Views.

"We need three airports, our present large city airport, an industrial one on the south side and a lake front airport," said Ald. William A. Rowan [10th]. Ald. Arthur G. Lindell [9th] put rezoning first on his list of needed achievements. He said it will do more than anything else to remedy the blighted neighborhoods.

"To solve the traction problem is most important," said Ald. James Quinn [50th], traction committee chairman.

Ald. George D. Kells [28th] put rehabilitation of blighted districts first on his list. Ald. Paul Douglas [5th] listed traction and an additional airport and said more systematic city purchasing would help.

COUNTY BOARD'S HEARING TODAY ON 1941 BUDGET

The county board will hold a public hearing today on the 1941 budget adopted by the board's finance committee 10 days ago. The committee's budget proposal total $20,564,625 or $1,968,000 less than the 1940 budget. The new budget is expected to be passed by the board Friday.

The finance committee's budget reduces the salaries of all county employés. Those earning less than $3,000 will have their wages reduced by 5 per cent and those earning $3,000 or more will receive a 7 per cent cut. Other savings will be made by reducing appropriations for supplies and extra help by 12 per cent.

County Assessor John S. Clark said he will object to the reductions. He said that they will work a hardship on his office and cause inefficiency in levying taxes.

ROBERT TARRANT NABBED IN FUR COAT ESCAPADE

Seized Outside Girl's Apartment.

Robert Tarrant, 44 years old, heir to a manufacturing fortune, was in a cell at Town Hall police station last night after a series of incidents which began at 2 a. m. yesterday in a north side restaurant.

Police said Tarrant was chatting in a booth with Miss Tenace Palmer when some one sat on her coat. She then hung it on a rack. A stranger hung his coat over it, walking off later with both coats over his arm.

Police said Tarrant went to his home at 3750 Lake Shore drive and returned with a black seal coat worth $1,000 for Miss Palmer. She departed some time later while Tarrant was talking with other friends.

Departs with Soldier.

Some one told Tarrant she had left with another person. Tarrant went out and returned, demanding to know who the other person was. Then he left again with John Burkett, a private in uniform from Fort Sheridan.

At 7 a. m. Miss Palmer reported her own coat stolen.

Shortly before 11 a. m. police were called to the apartment hotel in which Miss Palmer lives at 4062 Kenmore avenue, where they were told a man was flourishing a gun.

Both Taken to Station.

Policemen Everett Mullaney, Everett Basham, and Kenneth Goude reported they found Tarrant and Burkett outside the apartment, with the seal coat. The police said they found a .32 caliber revolver in Burkett's pocket and that Tarrant claimed it.

Tarrant and Burkett were taken to the station. Burkett was released and Tarrant was held for investigation by the detective bureau gun squad. No charge was filed against him.

Tarrant declined to discuss the events that had landed him in a cell. Miss Palmer was not home.

FIRST in Philadelphia

During 1940, The Philadelphia Inquirer again led all other Philadelphia newspapers in volume of advertising published. Again The Inquirer was first in Retail Advertising . . . first in General Advertising . . . first in Classified Advertising . . . first in Total Advertising. In fact, for seven consecutive years, The Inquirer has been Philadelphia's leading advertising medium. In the past year, The Inquirer led the next nearest paper by the impressive margin of 3,736,392 agate lines; and The Inquirer's gain of 1,262,643 lines in 1940 follows a gain of 1,401,945 lines in 1939.

Inquirer first in volume

INQUIRER . . .	16,369,080 lines
Bulletin	12,632,688 lines
Record	10,032,975 lines
E. Ledger	8,695,879 lines

Inquirer first in gains

INQUIRER	1,262,643 gain
Bulletin	669,306 gain
Record	935,786 gain
E. Ledger	1,164,385 loss

Looking at 1941 business prospects, economists foresee areas of prosperity and depression—of boom and slump—scattered in strange fashion over the country: prosperity for industrial regions, prosperity for tidewater cities where ships are built, for iron and steel centers. The Philadelphia District, "Arsenal of America", has already been awarded $1,420,000,000 in defense contracts and is swinging into high gear for the biggest job of its life. Follow armament smoke stacks for expanding consumer income. Is your advertising adequate, here in America's third largest market?

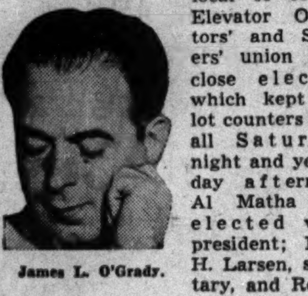
ELEVATOR UNION ELECTS ENEMY OF LATE CZAR

J. L. O'Grady, Taylor Critic, Wins Close Race.

James Leonard O'Grady, 4253 Bernard street, was elected president of local 66 of the Elevator Operators' and Starters' union in a close election which kept ballot counters busy all Saturday night and yesterday afternoon. Al Matha was elected vice president; Mack H. Larsen, secretary, and Robert Marcus, treasurer.



James L. O'Grady.

When the ballots for president were tallied it was shown that James Leonard O'Grady had defeated Thomas O'Grady, incumbent business agent, by 20 votes. The vote for president was: J. L. O'Grady, 1,000; Thomas O'Grady, 980; Robert Fletter, 723; George Knox, 38.

The election was the first under a new constitution adopted recently by the union. The constitution, devised to prevent gang seizure of the union, provides for its rule by a board of trustees and other officers.

Foe of Taylor Régime.

The newly elected president was described as a foe of the last president, Mathew Taylor, who died Sept. 6. Taylor was the union's czar for 10 years prior to his death. He permitted no one else a voice in the union's management and always declared himself unanimously reëlected in the union's so-called elections. Elevator operators said O'Grady's voice often was heard in union meetings, however. He always opposed Taylor, they said.

Taylor frequently threatened to step down from the platform and silence O'Grady, it was said. But always, his supporters declared, O'Grady spoke his mind.

Before his death Taylor made a statement to State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney, describing how he and the union had come under the domination of George Scalise, then president of the Building Service Employés' International union, with which the local is affiliated. Taylor said he had paid out $30,000 in union funds to gangsters and was in constant fear of being killed on Scalise's orders.

Scalise Sent to Prison.

Scalise was convicted in New York City of robbing the international union and now is in prison. He was ousted as president of the international and William McFetridge of Chicago, in whom the elevator operators expressed great confidence, was chosen to head the international. McFetridge promised members of the local a free and open election to pick Taylor's successor.

The result was that more than 2,800 members voted. The election was held in the Midland hotel, 172 West Adams street. There were 15 booths and several ballot boxes. The polls were open from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. Saturday.

President Elect O'Grady has been working as a starter at the De Paul building, 64 East Lake street. He is married and the father of four children. On Aug. 5, 1939, he went to a race track for the first time and won $5,000 by picking seven winners out of eight races.

Matha, Larsen, and Marcus are veteran union officers and were reelected despite the defeat of Thomas O'Grady, who had been second in command under Taylor.

ALLIS-CHALMERS STICKS TO STAND ON CLOSED SHOP

Declines to Parley with Strikers on Policy.

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 2 [Special].—The Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company, whose $40,000,000 national defense contracts have been held up since Jan. 22 by a strike of 7,000 members of the C. I. O. automobile workers union, today declared no employé's job shall be dependent upon membership in any union. The company declined a request of R. J. Thomas, international president of the union, that the management, thru its executive committee, discuss the company's open shop policy with the union leaders.

Rejection of Thomas' request for a meeting of company executive and union leaders came from Max W. Babb, president of the Allis-Chalmers company.

Thomas, who left for Detroit yesterday, did not receive the Babb message. Instead, it was delivered to Maj. James P. Holmes, federal conciliator. Thomas had said that the strike could not be settled unless the company changed its open shop policy.

Free to Join a Union.

Babb, in stating the company's policy, wrote Thomas as follows: "No employé's job shall be dependent upon his or her membership in any labor organization. All of our employés shall be free from intimidation or coercion on company premises either by the union or the company."

Babb said that the question of a closed shop had been thoroly considered and discussed by the company management many times and that there had been nothing new brought out to warrant a change in its opposition to the closed or all union shop.

Continue to Reorganize Union.

"The company will continue to recognize local No. 248, U. A. W. A.-C. I. O. as the exclusive bargaining agency for employés in the production unit of the West Allis works," Babb wrote.

"This closed shop [all-union shop] issue has been almost the sole subject of negotiation in many meetings since Jan. 4. In all of these meetings and in my long meeting with you on Friday nothing new on the subject was brought out.

"Under all of the circumstances, it is clear that no useful purpose could be served by the requested meeting."

Father Francis J. Haas, special federal conciliator, and Thomas Burns, representative of Sidney Hillman, labor member of the National Defense commission, left today for Washington.

COUNTY HOSPITAL REJECTS 1,961 NEEDY IN 6 DAYS

1,307 Admitted; Beds Placed in Halls.

BY MARCIA WINN.

Cook county hospital admitted 1,307 new patients last week, from Monday thru Saturday. At the same time it turned away 1,961 sick persons who tried to get relief and a bed within its portals.

Here are the daily figures:

Monday, 227 admitted, 393 rejected; Tuesday, 245 admitted, 348 rejected; Wednesday, 218 admitted, 340 rejected; Thursday, 214 admitted, 314 rejected; Friday, 219 admitted, 290 rejected; Saturday, 184 admitted, 276 rejected.

How Many Critically Ill?

How many of the 1,961 rejected were critically ill? None, the hospital authorities hope.

"We haven't turned down any with really serious illnesses," Dr. Ole C. Nelson, assistant warden, hazarded. "We never turn down a real emergency. We take them into the halls."

That may be one reason why the hospital's death rate for December was 10 per cent. Of 6,003 patients admitted that month, 608 died.

"A third of them die within the first 24 hours," Dr. Nelson said. "They're almost dead before they are brought here. They stay home until it's too late to do any good."

Beds in Corridors.

A tour showed that the hospital had quite a few vacant beds yesterday, but the vacant beds were some of those in the long corridors where patients have been bedded for several years Fully half of these were occupied. In some halls a flimsy cotton screen separated one patient from her neighbor two feet away. In other halls there were no screens. One bed, in which a patient was being fed intravenously, was at the top of a stairway.

One member of the county board, Commissioner Edward M. Sneed, colored, took time off yesterday to make a personal tour of the hospital. At its close he sank wearily into a chair.

"I don't know what to say," he said. "It's a problem. If those people holding up their money by not paying taxes could come here once in a while they'd change their attitude and pay."

AID TO BRITAIN WITHOUT H. R. 1776.

Mr. Stimson's testimony before the senate foreign affairs committee only adds to the mystery regarding H. R. 1776. The secretary of war appeared at a secret session of the committee, but what he had to say leaked out promptly, as pretty generally happens in such circumstances. Among other things he is reported to have stated that the American army today has not even one combat airplane with the gun power, the self-sealing fuel tank, and the armor protection for the pilot which the fighting in Europe has shown to be necessary.

In the last calendar year about 2,800 combat airplanes were produced in the United States. Of these only some 400 were retained in this country, according to the accounts of Mr. Stimson's testimony. The rest were sent abroad to various countries, chiefly to Britain.

From these facts certain conclusions are inescapable. One of them is that H. R. 1776 is not required to assure Britain access to our industrial resources. She is already getting everything we can give her. If her financial resources in this country are nearing exhaustion, that situation can be met along the lines suggested by Senator Taft, Congressman Martin, and others: by an appropriation which might take the form of a gift or a loan, as congress may decide. Unless the President wishes to use the powers conferred in the resolution to give away the fleet and the few airplanes we have, or unless he wishes to use those powers in some fashion to push us into the war, what purpose can the bill serve?

Gen. Marshall, the chief of staff, has said that he expects the Germans to assault Britain within the next few months. Herr Hitler in his anniversary speech said the same thing, and in this connection it is to be remembered that he has frequently called his shots. The probability is that the attack will be launched on this schedule. If so, H. R. 1776 for lack of time can have no influence on the outcome unless our administration intends to use the grant of power to place our military and naval force at the service of Britain in the emergency, which is precisely what Mr. Roosevelt and his spokesmen have insisted they will not do.

The advocates of the bill have been saying that if Hitler does succeed in conquering Britain, America is next in line and the assault will not be deferred until we have armed to meet it. It is difficult to believe that those who talk this way really credit their own story. If they did, they could hardly be so easy in their minds about the amount of war material which we are sending overseas. The men responsible for our army and navy would be resigning right and left rather than leave the country without the means of defending itself against so grave and so imminent a threat. It is precisely because they are convinced that the likelihood of an invasion of America is remote that they are allowing so large a share of our production to go abroad.

YOUNG REACTIONARIES.

The University of Chicago returns to the wars this autumn as a guerrilla, with a football team which will play half a dozen games with nearby colleges. All students in the university, not excepting freshmen and graduate students, will be eligible for the team. There will be no spring practice; practice in the fall will be limited to a few hours a week. Admission to the stadium will be free.

From this it may be concluded that President Hutchins regards football as a game. He sees no reason why young men who wish to play it should be prevented or discouraged from doing so, but he believes that a university ought not to go into the gladiatorial business. In his judgment, football can properly be played for fun, for physical exercise, and perhaps even for moral and intellectual advancement, but its rôle in college life should be kept humble. Football should never be allowed to obscure the real purposes of higher education. It should never absorb too much of the time and attention of the students.

Perhaps he is right. If he is, football need not be the only one of the student activities to be put in its place. There are a lot of others which consume just as much time and return no more in intellectual and moral values. Editing a college annual takes long hours of work, but there never was a yearbook which was worth a quarter of the time spent on it. What intellectual or moral purpose is served by a college comic opera? Or a college newspaper? We have often wondered.

The history of these institutions is not very different from the history of football. They, too, originated in the desire of young people to do something they liked to do and for which they had some talent. The first of the college operettas may have been blessed with spontaneity and high spirits, but that was a long time ago. The college dailies go on, year after year, for reasons which no man knows and nobody troubles to ask.

Probably half of us who write and edit THE TRIBUNE worked long hours, day after day, on one or another college publication. We thought we were using our time to good advantage, as is proved by the fact that we slaved away without compulsion or material reward to keep us at it. We were probably deluded in part, but most of us think we got something in return which has since been valuable to us. Most men who played football feel the same way about their experience and that goes even for those who didn't cash in as professionals.

Some observers of campus life think that the young people in the colleges are determined to destroy the social institutions which hold civilization together. If so, it is curious that these same young people have so slavish a devotion to their own not too admirable or useful student institutions. It was Mr. Hutchins and his board of trustees who withdrew Chicago from big-time football competition. In this matter Mr. Harold Swift was the flaming radical and the students the black reactionaries. On form it would seem that society may survive the coming of age of these young tories.

SLAVE ECONOMY OR FREE ECONOMY.

What is called democratic government is geared to the profit motive, the price system, and the activity of free enterprisers. Democracy is a name which has been thrown around so aimlessly that some people are beginning to wonder what it means. In other days there wasn't any doubt about it. Here it meant that under a republican form of government, founded on the consent of the governed, the laws which affected the people were enacted by their chossen representatives and their conduct was not governed by edicts and rules emanating from an authority not subject to check.

If it is to be assumed that representative democracy, the republican form, or whatever term is preferred, is the master of the profit system, the price system, and free enterprise, we'll have cause and effect confused. We'll be standing on our heads. Democracy is the creature of economic freedom. It is because men can adventure as they like that people can make their own laws. Profit and prices are automatic energizers. They give people reasons for making the things and marketing them. They preserve freedom because they eliminate the necessity of finding another incentive to adventure and to labor. The only other incentive is compulsion and the only form compulsion can take is governmental edict.

The system which makes free government possible is under the fire of persons who examine it for its evils and not for its virtues. Their conclusions condemn it and they go so far as to say that democracy, to preserve itself, must take over control of these otherwise automatic processes. Their counsels are prevailing in the American government and the illusion grows that freedom may be protected by denying it.

In nearly all aspects of life liberty carries with it some undesirable consequences. Many people who do or may do society a variety of injuries are not put under restraint because the general opinion is that a rigid application of such restraints would get into a twilight zone and be dangerous to the average man.

For the sake of liberty we allow liberty where a line of reasoning might prove it unintelligent to do so. We know better than that and prefer to err on the side of freedom. Our economic system has and will have its undesirable aspects. Balanced against these defects is the fact that the system is the essence of free government.

Economic freedom is one with political freedom. It permits political freedom to exist. When economic freedom is taken away, as in the dictatorship countries, political freedom perishes. In any gradually developing reformist era in which controls are multiplied and intensified the tendency is in the direction of political loss. Such reformist adventurism tends to proceed from one position to another until its own logic carries it, if it is not checked, to the complete control which alone can accomplish its purpose. It is true in this respect also that a country cannot be half free and half slave.

If a slave economy is being substituted for free economy it must either completely triumph or it must completely fail. The illustrations afforded by the Nazis and the communists were conclusive but they were not necessary. The result could have been perceived by any one who wanted to study the causes and honestly admit the effects to his comprehension. If we don't see it now it is because we refuse to be guided by the experiences of other people.

THE STEEL REPORT.

Big Steel is again in the bucks. The report released Tuesday afternoon showed that profits of the corporation in 1940 were over 100 million dollars. That was better than in five of the nine years of the potfulofchicken era. The 1940 net income broke all records back to 1929.

As steel is the prime war stuff, nothing booms steel like a war. And as the outstanding company in the industry, comes a war and United States Steel sits pretty.

This company which was put together by J. P. Morgan in 1901 made 100 million dollars for the first time in 1907. It never duplicated the feat until the war. In 1916 the all-time profits peak for this or any other company was set, 271 million dollars. Total profits after taxes in the last war amounted to 700 million dollars.

In the boom period from 1923 to 1929 profits hit the ceiling in nearly every line of business, but not for the United States Steel corporation. It took seven years of peace, seven prosperous years of peace, for it to make as much money as it made in four years of war. Possibly the business has changed and the giant couldn't move as fast as its little competitors. However, in both the postwar prosperity period and in the depression the smaller steel companies operated with greater success. In 1932 the company went into the red and stayed there for three years. There was a profit of a million dollars in 1935, 50 million dollars in 1936, and 95 million in 1937, and then another deficit. In 1939 profits amounted to 41 million dollars. While the leading company made this unsatisfactory record some of its competitors had profits right along.

The profit for 1940 was equal to $8.84 per share. But the stock sells for only $65 a share. In 1937, the best boom year, the company earned $8.01 a share and the stock sold for nearly $130. The market thinks war profits are worth only half as much as peace profits. Big Steel is no exception. Many war babies aren't worth half as much as they were a year before Munich.

A NATURAL SURMISE.
[Daily Oklahoman, Oklahoma City.]

When seen displaying a roll of bills downtown a citizen of Texas was promptly arrested by the Oklahoma City police on the charge of impersonating a federal officer. Possession of currency nowadays seems to warrant the suspicion that the possessor is attached to some alphabetical adjunct of the federal government. Of course it is not convincing proof but it is abundant warrant for suspicion.

A SOCIETY OF SCHOLARS.

Here's a new book full of learning that the literary critics will pass by, if they ever see it: "Phi Beta Kappa Directory, 1941." Its 1,700 pages contain information about each of the 113,000 persons who have been elected, because of superiority in scholarship, to membership in the oldest American college fraternity. Here are the studious wearers of the famous watch key emblem of intellectual zeal, from John Heath, William and Mary, 1776, to the numerous campus sprigs of 1940.

Phi Beta Kappa is honorary and nonsecret, but when it was founded in the Apollo room of the Raleigh tavern, at Williamsburg, Va., now a tourist objective, it had all the mystic trimmings of Greek letter collegiate life—secrecy, a badge, Greek and Latin mottoes, an elaborate initiation ceremony, a token of salutation, a constitution and a seal. But its 50 founders at William and Mary were of the thoughtful type; the meetings contained literary programs and debates on such subjects as "The cause and origin of society" and "Whether the fair sex conduce to the improvement of ours."

The present emblem of the society bears the insignia of the original, which was a square of silver to be worn on the watch chain. The stem that made the badge an actual key for the winding of watches was added years later. Let's study the simple symbolism in the engraving on the faces of the key:

The Greek letters, Phi Beta Kappa, are the initials of the motto, "Philosophia Biou Kubernetes"—"Philosophy the Guide of Life." The three stars in an upper corner stand for Friendship, Morality, and Literature; the hand below, with index finger pointing toward these stars, is a symbol of aspiration. On the other side the monogram SP signifies Societas Philosophiae. Below is the date of the founding of the fraternity, Dec. 5, 1776. Above the monogram, the name, college and class of the wearer are given.

Charters were granted to Harvard on Dec. 4, 1779, and to Yale five days later. These two chapters largely determined Phi Beta Kappa's subsequent development.

Generals Around the Goldfish Bowl.

My order number at the draft board is getting as close as a panhandler's breath, but I've heard so much about war in the last two years that it will be a relief to get into the army where we can talk about blondes. Every evening in the lobby of my hotel our war council, consisting of armchair generals and a few fill-ins, convenes and starts an encircling movement by edging their chairs together a few inches at a time. By 9 o'clock there is a ring of mohair around the goldfish bowl as round as a columnist's shoulders and as tight as a stylish stout's evening slippers. The most amazing thing about these generals is their ability to fight the war without maps. The management is considering awarding service stripes for those who have seen a full year of service.

Last night's session nearly ended in a riot. Just as they had the British penetrating Italian Somaliland, the clerk came over with a handful of past due bills and said, "Gentlemen, if we are going to continue this war we must have more appropriations." M. Julep.

After a Night of Frost.

The Frost King breathed all night, and in the morning the world lay transformed by his silver breath. Every branch, every twig hung white-rimed, with its own bold black accentuating this new whiteness. All the grace of line, the intricacy of design were brought into stark relief. The Japanese pines across the road wore a furry mantle, and the grape arbor was tied with strands of silver Christmas cord. Even the telephone wires hung in long, glittering arcs. When the pale winter sun broke thru the thick gray haze, it hung glittering jewels on every twig, and painted blue shadows on the snow. There was nothing save beauty in this evanescent world. Helene.

ORGAN IN THE PARLOR.

Grandmother's golden oak organ
Still in our parlor stands,
And sometimes in the dim light
I fancy I see her hands
Moving over the keyboard,
Gentle, restrained, but sure,
Weaving musical magic
Which in my mind will endure.
If only her voice would mingle
With sweetly softened chords,
Singing an old time ballad
Or "My Soul Is Now the Lord's."
Grandmother, come play your organ;
Put me under a spell,
That I may write the stories
Those yellowed keys could tell.

Eleanore-Melissa.

The customary 8 to 5 is offered that there never was a muscle dancer named Little Egypt at the '93 fair. The leading dancer in the Streets of Cairo was Fatima. Little Egypt came to light at the Seeley dinner in New York later. C. Grant.

Our favorite bedtime reading now is that yellow covered book which discusses the mysteries of income tax deductions. CHARLES COLLINS.

SUDDEN BLINDNESS MAY BE TEMPORARY.

"SAVE your eyesight" is a well known slogan. No one welcomes the thought that it may be lost. Fortunately, cataracts may be removed safely with skilled surgery. While the conquest of glaucoma [hardening of the eyeball] still remains a puzzling problem, nevertheless, much can be done for relief. Even when the retina becomes detached—loosened from its bed—experts, using a special instrument, may restore it to its proper position and thus preserve vision.

But occasionally the power to use one or both eyes will be lost suddenly. While this may be temporary [like a cramp]—due to a spasm of the artery that supplies the retina—such an episode is not regarded as serious. Ofttimes it is fleeting in character and may be traced to the absorption of lead, to the taking of too much quinine, or occur in the course of an attack of sick headache. Likewise, it may appear in pregnant women who have suffered a convulsion [eclampsia]. If the source of the poison is eliminated speedily, sight returns.

More important than all, perhaps, is the fact that the optics must be provided with nutriment and there is one principal source—namely, the vessels of the retina. Now these channels are subject to the same sort of degeneration that may involve others elsewhere in the body. Assuming that the patient has a pressure above normal, we have a right to infer that the caliber of the pathway carrying vital fluid to the eye may become narrowed or even blocked.

Some of these patients complain of blindness lasting from a few minutes to two or three hours. When sieges are of longer duration the outcome is less hopeful, as clots may form which impede completely the flow of the circulation. Another possibility is a rupture of one of these minute capillaries. Such an accident is called a "retinal hemorrhage." Gradual absorption will ultimately take place and, in some instances, sight will be regained partially.

Naturally we want to protect all our vital parts against such mishaps and those who know that their pressure levels are higher than they should be can give prompt attention to the condition by means of a modified diet, with the addition of rest. If we relieve the pound upon the heart we can understand that the same relaxation will come about in the blood conduits. While we can't restore rubber to these tubes after they have lost it, we can at least slow down or prevent the progress of inflammation within their walls.

Furthermore, we can reduce the storage of poisons by adequate elimination. A tepid bath daily will keep the pores of the skin open and functioning. Moderate exercise and a balanced ration will maintain the weight at par and constipation can be overcome. Then, too, we can avoid all substances which may injure the kidneys—the excessive use of cured meats, condiments, and highly spiced articles.

A simple caution has to do with violent coughing, which should be avoided insofar as possible. In the patient who is afflicted with chronic bronchitis in association with hypertension, there is some danger that barking or retching will place too much strain on the vessels within the orbits.

Should trouble come on, however, no time should be allowed to pass before a competent eye specialist is consulted. There are a number of drugs which will dilate the arteries and sometimes a minute plug can be forced forward into a relatively harmless area so that only a small percentage of sight will be lost.

NOT STUNTED.

Mrs. C. L. writes: When my baby has a cold I give her a drop of whisky in a little water. A friend told me I would stunt her growth. Is this possible?

REPLY.

Not the slightest danger of stunting growth in the quantity mentioned.

GALL BLADDER TROUBLE.

Miss H. B. writes: What is cholecystitis?

REPLY.

Inflammation of the gall bladder.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

REPUBLICAN ACTIVITY.

Van Wert, O., Jan. 27.—If we Republicans expect to place a man in the White House in 1944 now is the time to start the ball rolling, not 1943. The first thing we know we will have another Willkie in our midst and that will be the end of the Republican party. Republicans should organize. Every community should form a club or some kind of an active organization immediately. These should be welded into active state groups and the state groups into national. Some people will say, "Why, our community does have such an organization." That is probably true, but 90 per cent of them will be passive and not active the next three years, that is nationally, unless they are continually prodded.

I would even advocate a national convention to select a leader to replace Willkie until the 1943 national convention. It might even be a good idea to select or draft a small list of persons from whom the 1944 President and Vice President would be picked. Their records could be made known to the general public and watched by the general public. They could be placed in the limelight at every opportunity. They would become known, their records would be known, and the Republicans would have a chance.
K. M. SMITH.

A MAN OF PRINCIPLE.

Culver, Ind., Jan. 31.—Wendell Willkie is now putting into action what he advocated before election: "America before everything." He puts his country above petty, trite political affiliations. I and millions of Americans cheer him for his principle. You should take a hint from Willkie and be an American newspaper for a change. H. O. R.

YOU HAVE A LOT OF COMPANY.

Chicago, Jan. 31.—Thanks for your editorial on Wendell Willkie. My only regret now is that I was bamboozled into supporting a New Dealer when, believe it or not, I really thought I was supporting a Republican candidate. And the hard earned dollars I sent and collected! What a world! And what a sap I was!
GRACE MELLON.

A DEAL?

Arcahum, O., Jan. 31.—Could it be that Mr. Willkie has been promised a place on the Supreme court? They say Chief Justice Hughes will retire this year. Mr. Roosevelt will certainly have to appoint one Republican, and probably a deal has already been made.

What good will Mr. Willkie's testimony do upon his return from England? Every one knows it will be favorable to the lease-lend bill. JOSEPH S. SMITH.

AN OLD WORN-OUT HARP.

Bloomington, Ill., Jan. 31.—An editorial in your paper today again condemns Mr. Willkie, and now you begin to play on that old worn-out harp about international bankers and international finance. We heard the first verse of this song about Wall street et al. from soapbox orators, and now you, who but recently condemned Mr. Roosevelt for singing the second verse, are singing the third and, we hope, the last stanza. Before we know it we will all be joining in on the chorus! Who are these culprits, the international bankers? If they are guilty of all the crimes charged against them let's hunt them down and jail them. Aren't wars caused by overemphasis on nationalism rather than internationalism of any sort?

The Republican party had better quickly get its feet back on the ground before it skids downhill into oblivion. What an ignominious end for a great party, the party of Lincoln, the great emancipator, who was not afraid to fight for freedom, even the freedom of a race other than his own! EDWIN H. COOKE.

THE DUPES OF 1940.

Prairie du Chien, Wis., Jan. 31.—In 1932, for the only time, I voted for a Democratic Presidential nominee. Within a year I discovered my great mistake.

In 1940 I voted for the Barefoot Boy from Indiana. If you have a list in your archives for the Dupes of 1940, kindly add my name. HENRY H. KLEINPELL.

DIME UNDER THE PLATE.

Chicago, Jan. 30.—My praise for your editor and disapproval to C. W. B. and Mary Anderson on the dime under the plate question. I am a waiter. There is no feeling of servility or subordination among any of my fellow workers. In fact, the higher class or better restaurants will add a 10 per cent service charge to your check. That is what it is: A service charge. There is no question of begging or slavery whatsoever. When you demand service you have to pay for it. A waiter, hairdresser, barber, doorman—thousands of service employés accept the tip because they know you have been satisfied with their services.

To be a waiter is an occupation that is learned by years of experience.
A WAITER.

THE BROWDER CASE.

Chicago, Jan. 27.—A good many months ago Earl Browder was convicted of perjury in New York after a trial of not more than three or four days, in which they sentenced him to three or four years in the penitentiary. I understand he appealed the case, but as far as I know nothing has been heard from the appeal. As to why it has not been heard at a time when there is so much feeling against communists in this country I do not know.

I noticed your article this morning about Hathaway. It seemed to me it would help things along if some one would stir up the trial of Browder.
JOHN V. FARWELL.

INTERESTING IF TRUE.

Chicago, Jan. 30.—Out at one of the draft boards in the 18th ward one member does the questioning and the other two sit in on the cross-examination, supplementing it with some wisecracks.

The prize act pulled at this board was the command appearance of two pregnant women before the board to prove statements concerning their condition in their husbands' questionnaires. Such a humiliating ordeal is certainly uncalled for. What's the matter with a doctor's certificate in cases such as this? F. P.

A REPLY TO MRS. ALLEE.

Chicago, Jan. 31.—For the information of Mrs. Allee of Hyde Park and other readers who are not familiar with the procedure of the League of Women Voters in determining what legislation to support and what to oppose, allow me to explain.

The present lease-lend bill is indorsed by the League because at its last national convention in New York City, May, 1940, a majority of the delegates present adopted after a long debate: "A policy as a nonbelligerent of discrimination against an aggressor and in favor of the victim of aggression."

This action was taken after a general debate from the floor during a session devoted to the consideration of the program. Surely this is a far cry from "following the lead of a few, or sometimes only one, brilliant and active person," as Mrs. Allee suggests.

[MRS. WM. G.] PAMELA BARRY,
Chairman for the Woodlawn League Department of Government and Foreign Policy.

NEGOTIATING WITH HITLER.

Chicago, Jan. 30.—Let Col. Lindbergh come out and explain clearly and simply what kind of a negotiated peace can hold water with a fiend who has repudiated every promise.

Hitler has the same chance of getting an army over here as we have to get to Europe; one is no more impossible than is the other. Hence, why should we worry about our shipping an army overseas? It can't be done; Charlie Lindbergh says so. F. E. ROSKALL.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

Letters to this department must be signed with names and addresses of writers.

PROOF OF DIVORCE.

Chicago, Jan. 30.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—May I ask for your help? I have been going with a young man for a year. I love him very much. He has been married before. He lived with his wife for about three months and then gave her money to get a divorce.

1. Is there any way I could find out if the divorce has actually been granted? If she obtained the divorce in California [2] where do I write to obtain the information?

3. Is there a charge?

4. Where can I get such information in Chicago?

5. Would you advise me to take such steps or [6] will I get into unnecessary legal trouble? B. L.

1. The first step is to ask the man for the name of the court and the number of the case, after which you can look it up on the court record. If you are not willing to ask him for clews, then the possibility for tracing the case depends on what clews are in your possession.

2. To the county seat of the county in which the complainant resided at the time.

3. It is possible that you could obtain such information without charges.

4. See preceding answers.

5. Depends on your plans. If you contemplate marrying the man you should first make sure that he is in a position to contract a valid marriage.

6. You risk trouble if you go ahead without making sure that the man has a divorce.

Test Your Horse Sense

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE.

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 27.

1. A man who sweetened his coffee with saccharin would be most likely to suffer from which one of the following ailments Tuberculosis Bright's Disease Diabetes High Blood Pressure.
2. Which one of the following generally consumes the most electricity Radio Electric Fan Electric Iron Electric Razor
3. In certain mathematical calculations it is necessary to employ the reciprocal of a number. What is the reciprocal of ½? ¼ 1 2 4
4. Where would you be most likely to find a caisson in use On a Farm On a Bridge Construction Job In an Auto Factory In a Chemistry Laboratory.
5. If a housewife used a steam iron, she could eliminate which of the following operations with reference to her clothes Dampening Drying Soaking Washing.
6. Much of our English language is built upon Greek and Latin. The word "psychology," for example, comes from the Greek words "psyche," meaning "soul," and "logos," meaning science. The latter is changed to "logy" and thus appears in many familiar words like "geology," "mineralogy," etc. You are entitled to one point for each correct matching of the technical terms below with the subject matter which they cover:

[a] Entomology	[v] Reptiles
[b] Paleontology	[w] Relics of ancient cultures
[c] Bacteriology	[x] Fossils
[d] Herpetology	[y] Germs
[e] Archeology	[z] Insects

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—the last question counts five points.]

Choice of a theater has been delayed by the fact that the picture requires all new sound equipment.

New Yorkers paid $10 each to see the first showing there of "Fantasia" several months ago, the proceeds going to the British War Relief society, but Chicagoans will not be asked to spend that much to attend the opening. Mrs. George F. Henneberry and Mrs. Clarence T. Seipp are vice chairmen of Mrs. Bartholomay's committee.

U. of C. Unveils Art of Capital of Ancient Persian Empire

BY MARCIA WINN.

Fifteen hundred Chicagoans retraced time 2,271 years yesterday to find themselves in the center of civilization.

They did this by entering the new Iranian hall of the Oriental institute at the University of Chicago where, for the first time, the results of 10 years' archeological excavation in the palace area of ancient Persepolis in Iran [Persia] went on display.

Here, from the head of a giant stone bull which once stood guard over the "hundred column" hall of Xerxes, from a headless limestone cat, from a great stone tablet inscribed in Babylonian cuneiform, from a stone bull with the head of a man and the feathered chest of a bird, and from a strip of relief sculpture from a 300 foot palace stairway, they obtained an inkling of what the world was like when it was ruled from a plateau in Persia.

This plateau, artificially created, was Persepolis, ordinarily thought of as a city, but in reality only a palace area. Here, from the time Darius built it in 522 B. C. until its sacking in 330 B. C. by Alexander the Great, was the controling pulse of the world from Abyssinia to Afghanistan, from India to Greece.

It was the largest empire the world has ever known, according to Donald E. McCown, assistant director of the university's expedition there, for it comprised all the civilized world of that era. First Darius ruled it, and later Xerxes, his son, and to them both in turn came the plenipotentiaries of captive lands each New Year's day bearing tribute.

Alexander sacked it thoroly in 330 B. C., purging the palace treasury of its fabulous cache of gold, and then burned it so completely it never was reoccupied. For this the institute was grateful. Since no city was built over the ruins, the excavators had to proceed thru only 15 feet of dirt to find them, rather than thru another level of crumbled civilization.

Visitors to the new Iranian hall had to go bearing great imagination. Behind the headless reclining cat of carboniferous limestone they had to visualize the audience hall of Xerxes across the entrance of which it once lay protectively. Beneath the sculptured lion's head of the same black stone, polished by years and not by hand, they had to visualize the 30 or 50 foot column for which it once formed a capital.

Around a square piece of limestone, a rosette carved into its heart, they had to visualize the mighty walls of mud brick in which it was inset, one of a row of stone rosettes. To the strip of bas-relief showing the rows of submissive peoples bearing tribute they had to add in imagination 295 additional feet of relief and top it all with the double stairway which it decorated.

To the great bull's head, a monumental 11 ton piece of sculpture, sublime, massive and dignified with its mane in serried curls, they had to supply in their mind's eye its body and legs, which the Iranian government decided to retain, and its mate and place them both at the end of the double colonnade of 50 foot columns in Xerxes' "hundred column" hall. That being done, they knew a little of the panoply and might of the world when ruled from a plateau in Persia.

"And how did the ordinary people live?" Dr. Erich F. Schmidt, field director of the expedition, was asked.

WEDDING

Miss Catherine Huey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Huey, was married to Edwin Clifford Jeffries, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Gilbert Jeffries of Lawrence, Kas., Saturday at noon in the chapel of St. Chrysostom's church. The Rev. Dudley Stark officiated. Only members of the families attended the ceremony and a breakfast that followed at the Chicago Athletic association.

Miss Elizabeth Huey came home from Smith college to be her twin sister's maid of honor. Cecil Giffin was best man. After a wedding trip to Wisconsin, Mr. and Mrs. Jeffries will live in Chicago.

Ballet Dances Uncut Version of 'Swan Lake'

BY CECIL SMITH.

No array of mere frivolous divertissements occupied the San Francisco Opera ballet in its appearance at the Great Northern theater yesterday. The entire afternoon's program was devoted to the first Chicago performance of the uncut version of "Swan Lake," danced in four acts to Tschaikowsky's music. The usual one act condensation of "Swan Lake," as the Ballet Russe and the Ballet Theater perform it, consist of music from the second act and choreography drawn partly from the second act and partly from the fourth.

Except for the passing academic interest of discovering what the whole ballet is about, the familiar predigested version is really preferable. But once in a lifetime it is mildly entertaining to discover a few facts about the home life of Prince Siegfried, to see how he behaves among human beings instead of swans, and to be introduced to his rather frigid and forbidding mother. It is perhaps also of some slight importance to learn that Odette, the queen of the swans, has a human rival, Odile, with whom she may easily be confused.

The young members of the San Francisco Opera ballet create a pleasing effect of artistic sincerity. The technical prowess of the soloists is not particularly gratifying, but the corps de ballet functions coöperatively, gracefully, and with the obvious hope of attaining to a most serious artistic level. The performance gave evidence of firm and continuous discipline, and none of the dancers ever slipped into any sort of vulgar attempt to win applause cheaply. It was impossible not to admire the lofty quality of the ballet's endeavor, even while confessing freely that the company still has a long way to go before it can fully realize its aims.

In the second act William Christensen, the choreographer, leaned heavily upon the traditional forms and patterns used by other companies. In the other acts the choreography seemed satisfactorily to follow the same qualifications of period style.

On the musical side the performance was seriously harmed by an inept and often decidedly inartistic two piano accompaniment. The costumes also were unhappy—except in the case of the swans—in that they looked sleazy and were not designed with a good feeling for color harmony.

Jarmila Novotna's Audience Responds Warmly to Recital

Jarmila Novotna, the beautiful Czech soprano, gave her first Chicago recital last night under the auspices of the Arts club. Her appearance drew a cordial audience that filled the club's concert hall and responded warmly and enthusiastically to the singer's offerings.

Last night's recital revealed little more about Mme. Novotna's artistry than did her single appearance with the Chicago Opera company last November as Violetta in "La Traviata." The virtues and faults her singing exhibited on both occasions were identical.

Whatever it is she is engaged in presenting—songs, arias, or a complete operatic rôle—she brings to her performance a complete understanding of the text and the ability to convey that understanding with clarity and genuine emotional sympathy. In doing so she manages to keep the musical line intact, moreover, and she has at her command an excellent control of tone color and phrasing.

Unfortunately, any criticism of Mme. Novotna's singing must mention her vocal technique, which is unpleasant enough to spoil much of the value of her interpretative gifts. For her rather rich vocal tone is strained and tight in its production, and her difficulty in reaching not very high notes is only too evident.

Last night's program included groups of songs by 17th century Italian composers, Schubert, Bizet, Debussy, and Fauré, and two arias by Mozart. It was brought to a close by three numbers by Czech composers. William Tarrasch was the accompanist. R. E.

New Male Star Is Introduced by Argentinita

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Argentinita and her Spanish ensemble, appearing yesterday afternoon and evening at the Auditorium, introduced an unfamiliar male dancer of the first importance. He is Federico Rey, and he replaces the great Antonio Triana, who has recently left the company.

Rey's work is distinguished by something which can be described only as disciplined violence. He is abrupt, fiercely rhythmic, and possessed of an uncanny ability to leap clear across the footlights [figuratively] and set a watcher's blood to boiling. Yet he keeps knowingly within the frame of the dance, and draws a great part of his effectiveness from the stresses which result from such a situation. A highly stylized art form is compelled to contain and to make coherent a wildly bubbling imagination — and this is Rey's recipe, so far as a genuinely creative dancer may be said to have a recipe.

Technically, he is nothing less than a virtuoso, and not a virtuoso of the Spanish dance alone. He gave the impression that he could entrechat rings around some of the Russian principals. Indeed; the audience found his sheer technical perfection at least as exhilarating as the delicacy and humor of his characterizations.

Argentinita and her associates [Pilar Lopez, Rey, the pianist Rogelio Machado and the guitarist Carlos Montoya] presented a program of dances drawn from several parts of Spain, always emphasizing the popular and gypsy aspects of the Spanish dance. Vigor was combined with grace, sunny humor with an often haunting lyricism. A deft use of posture and grimace gave keen point to the "story" dances with which the program was interspersed.

An innovation was the use of settings—token settings, rather—for the excerpts from "The Three Cornered Hat." Rey had designed a miniature house complete with a figurine or two, and this was set at one side of the stage to give added piquancy if not any very startling verisimilitude to the proceedings.

Costumes were in the great Argentinita tradition — which means that they were designed to fit the character and period of the dance, to point up the personalities of the dancers, and to add a not inconsiderable part to the total impact of the performance.

Looking at Hollywood By John Chapman

Dairy of a Movie Correspondent.

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 2.—Sunday—A morning of work, and nothing much to report.

Monday—A morning at the Disney studio and lunch with Walt Disney, and afterward to see a bit of the Robert Benchley picture, "The Reluctant Dragon." What I see is plenty funny, and I howl when henpecked Bob turns on his wife and bawls her out in the voice of Donald Duck. "Fantasia" is to have its local première Wednesday, and Walt is already nervous. I kid him about what he did to poor Dorothy Thompson, driving her out of the theater in a thousand word dither about "Fantasia" being Nazi, and Walt being interested only in the fall of man. He is still baffled by that outburst. . . . In the evening to the Dean Jaggers'. They're celebrating their sixth wedding anniversary, and among those assisting are the Vincent Prices, the Fred MacMurrays, and Arlene Francis.

Tuesday—The Tuesday lunch crowd includes F. Van Wyck Mason, novelist and Fox scripter, who's just back from hunting in Mexico, and Hartzell Spence, who has been conferring with Methodist bigwigs on the proposed manner of screening his "One Foot in Heaven." Pleasing all the Methodists is going to be a big job, according to Spence. . . . I hear that Joe Breen has advised R.-K.-O. to go ahead and release "Citizen Kane." . . . Some of the journalists who are going on Universal's junket to Miami for the première of "Back Street" are flying by air liner. Margaret Sullavan, star of the picture, is the wife of Leland Hayward, who's an executive of another line.

Wednesday—A long day at the machine that puts this stuff out, and in the evening to the "Fantasia" opening. I like the picture even better on second viewing. Afterward a group of us talk it over and nobody agrees with another on what he liked best—which is a healthy thing.

Thursday—To Paramount for a tour of the sets, and first a call on Mary Martin, Don Ameche, and Oscar Levant in "Kiss the Boys Goodbye." Levant plays a new character who wasn't in the stage version. It's a substitution for the original caricature of the late Heywood Broun, the producers feeling that now that Heywood's gone the original wouldn't be quite cricket. . . . I watch the trio do a scene in a railroad coach, and Mary's Texas accent has broadened into pure south. . . . Then on to Claudette Colbert's "Skylark" set, and Director Mark Sandrich proudly exhibits the beautiful New England house which the studio carpenters have built for a setting. Allan Scott has written the final screen version of the play—but apparently changes are being made as it goes along, for Scott and Miss Colbert are chewing over lines and saying, "How would this be? Well, no." . . . There's to be a lunch for Ernest Hemingway at the commissary, but Hemingway and his bride are half an hour late, which is too late for a working man and I have to miss it. I checked afterward, tho, and it's reported that Hemingway favors Ingrid Bergman for the rôle of Maria. Cecil B. De Mille looks like the choice for a director. . . . In the evening to catch "Western Union," which is the best of Mr. Zanuck's recent outdoor epics. A lively story, good performances by Dean Jagger, Randy Scott, and the rest and the color shots of the Utah country are quite wonderful. Almost the same company will be used in a new historical picture of the Lewis and Clark expedition, with Scott and Jagger in the leads.

Friday—A round of golf and then for a p. m. call on Gregory La Cava—a visit which ends at 1:30 and is productive of much information and not a little innocent fun. It involves a call on W. C. Fields, whose invitation we accept on condition that he has a radio so we can hear the Joe Louis fight. Mr. Fields is, as usual, in excellent shape. La Cava starts shooting next week on "Unfinished Business," with Irene Dunne, Bob Montgomery, and Preston Foster. He has, as usual, no script—just a two inch pile of notes.

Saturday—A morning at the desk and an afternoon on the links.

Black Dress an Ideal Choice as Background for Glamor

BY REA SEEGER.

You don't have to boast a top bracket income to own a new black dress. One of these indispensable affairs 'round which a smart woman builds a reputation for flawless grooming can be selected now at moderate cost . . . a dress to highlight with handsome costume jewelry, clips, exciting thick bracelets, or to wear as the "just right" background for a new hat of brilliant color.

Clinging dull crêpe and semisheers, whether of novelty fabrics, all silk crêpes or the gossamer thin woolens, are tempting buys.

In them you'll notice most approvingly the new full skirts, the molded to the figure like bodice tops and the one-piece affairs with that streamlined long torso look. The one-piece finds are still way at the top for smart general wear, but the new flounced skirts are what will click.

Simple gathered ruffles sewed together make these new models. The top ruffle is scantily shirred, then attached to a deep ruffle slightly more full than the top, and so on to the lowest ruffle that makes the skirt flare out at the lower hemline. Fine and intricate detail is featured in bodices.

Buttons again fasten as well as decorate the front center panel. Necklines are simply cut, round and snugly fitted. White narrow cuffs and a collar furnish the eye appeal.

These are dresses that are year 'round necessities. There are dozens of ways of changing their appearance with costume accessories. They slide under fur coats and are equally distinctive in late spring with just a fur scarf, or in summertime they become the daytime uniform to wear with pastel or brilliant hats and gloves.

Unusual trimming devices of self material, shirred sections, new sleeves that end below the elbow, a basque line to the bodices and an air of quiet elegance is emphasized in these collections of dull black frosted with snowy white. You couldn't ask for a better time to revel in brand new complete selections.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Naive and actionful after the manner in which the leaping lithographs of other days used to be, is "The Son of Monte Cristo."

The story is concerned with the adventures of the son of France's greatest swordsman, who becomes involved in an intrigue perpetrated by the wicked dictator of the wee ducal principality of Lichtenberg, located between czar-ridden Russia and the Germany of the late 19th century.

The pretty Grand Duchess Zona, rightful ruler, sets forth secretly to obtain help from Louis Napoleon — and encounters — in disguise — the young Count of Monte Cristo, who, forthwith makes her fortunes his and is instrumental in foiling the plans of her enemies.

The film is exciting in its way, glittery and plumbfull of action ... Louis Hayward is a handsome and daredevil Monte Cristo, Miss Bennett a sweetly appealing Zona and George Sanders a magnificent [and far too likable for the rôle] dictator.

This production is smartly caparisoned and if you're not too old to dream—it'll cause you to do a lot of remembering.

Who Is This Girl?

By Helen Topping Miller

[Copyright: 1941: By Helen Topping Miller.]

SYNOPSIS.

Dining at the home of his employer, Harp Greenlee, a sheepman who has grown soft with city ways, Dan McCullough, manager of the ranch, San Mateo, meets Storm, whom Harp introduces as his niece. Mac falls in love with her, but is dubious as to just who she is, as he has heard Harp introduce so many women as his nieces that it has got to be a gag. Beatrice Abney, whose artist ex-husband is drinking himself to death near San Mateo, tells Mac that Storm is living at Harp's home, but they both cannot understand who she is as she is young, pretty, and innocent appearing. Mac decides to have it out with Harp, but finds him dead. Storm tells Mac that she doesn't know who Storm is as Harp placed her in a convent when she was 5 and told her he would tell her on her 21st birthday who she was. She is now 20. Gertrude, Harp's latest girl, arrives the night of Harp's death and insists on staying. Storm realizes they all think she is like Gertrude and Steele Dunlap, Harp's lawyer, tells her Harp willed Storm San Mateo and a tin box that has no key. Storm pawns her pearl necklace and goes back to the convent.

A VISITOR.

INSTALMENT XIX.

Storm could not bring herself to go to the chapel and pray.

The Reverend Mother was a wise woman.

She let Storm alone for a day and night. The sisters were casual and calm and sweet. Even Annabelle was a bit subdued and went quietly to sleep in her narrow bed without the usual hours of whispering, rushing, excited confidences. And Storm lay in the dark and looked up at the dim ceiling and tried to quiet the seething confusion that was in her heart, the tumult that was made of anger and unhappiness and stubbornly refused to decrease and give her peace. Instead it seemed to thicken and to darken, to press down and choke her, and even the litany, she whispered desperately, crossing herself in all the right places, did not lift or lighten it.

It had begun when she had closed her door against Dan McCullough and heard him beating on the panels and calling her name. She said over and over to herself, the furious exorcism she had invented, to put him out of her thoughts.

"He did believe it! He was sorry for me—and ashamed. He did believe it. It was in his face—and in his eyes. When we were dancing, I could feel it—holding me, holding himself away from me. He was sorry for me then—he believed it."

And Steele Dunlap had believed too, that she was one of Harp's women. Luckier than Gertrude, he had said. Flame ran over her whenever she remembered that moment, she would clench her hands till the nails cut her palms, she would draw straining breaths that made her chest ache tightly.

"I am far away now," she told herself, fighting for calm. "It is all ended."

The morning was Sunday, and all the girls in their brown skirts and white blouses and their plain brown hats were going to church in pairs, with the grave sisters walking behind, hands folded over their rosaries. But Storm did not go. She went into the empty chapel instead, and sat in a pew behind the confessional, looked, without seeing, at the blinking candles in red glasses, at the still, red light on the altar, and above it the broken brilliance of sunlight thru a colored window, shattered into orange and purple and blue.

After a while little Sister DuBose came in, and sat down beside her, reaching a cool, frail hand.

"They're worried about me, the dear things," thought Storm, letting her fingers lie in the sister's clasp.

They sat there in silence, till the dinner gong sounded and the girls came clattering back thru the halls. Then the sister knelt for a minute, then rising held out a hand to Storm.

"Peace will come, child," she whispered, softly.

"It's all so mixed up," sighed Storm, as they went out into the corridor, "if I could only see—what to do."

"You try too hard," said the sister. "Be a child for a little. Be content to wait. Sometimes God does things more quickly if we do not struggle too much."

"I'll try," said Storm, humbly.

All thru dinner Annabelle sat, fairly bouncing in her chair, her small, bright face twitching with eagerness and impatience for the meal to end. When at last the Mother rose and gave the signal for dismissal, Annabelle jumped up and clutched at Storm's arm, as they walked out of the room, following the file of brown and white figures. At the door she whispered, cautiously, "Come upstairs. I have to tell you something."

In their room Annabelle closed the door and waited, listening till all the footsteps in the corridor outside had died. Then she crouched on the floor at the foot of the bed, and motioned to Storm.

"Get down here and put your head under the bed a little. They can't hear thru the transoms, this way."

"What is it?" asked Storm, crouching down beside the excited girl. "Why do we have to be so sly?"

"Because Mother would skin me if she knew I had sneaked and listened. Storm, when we were coming in from church, there was a man in the hall. He stopped Mother Regina and asked for you."

"What did he look like?"

"Tall—and sort of smooth. About 40, I'd say."

"O," said Storm.

"He looked like New York—just a little gray in his hair, and swanky clothes. He told Mother he wanted to see you, so I went into that little lavatory next to her office—you can hear thru the wall—maybe you remember? I heard him tell the Mother that he was your lawyer—and that he had come to take you back to New York."

Steele Dunlap. So he had been the one to find her.

"I'm not going," said Storm, firmly.

"Mother told him that you were a guest here—that you were under her protection, and that you had said definitely that you did not wish to see anyone—not even lawyers. He argued a lot, but you know Mother. You know that nice, final way she has, very smooth and gentle, but you know it's no earthly use to argue or beg. She told him that even if you wished to see him—which you didn't—that the rules of the place forbade any visitors on Sunday, that she'd give you the message tomorrow that he had come, but she didn't think it would be any use. Then she told him good-day, with that sweet air that shuts a door in your face coolly—and he went away."

Storm got to her feet and walked to the window. She stood there looking down into the frost garden, where a white statue looked cold and lonely amid the naked shrubbery.

Annabelle followed, anxiously puzzled.

"Why don't you want to go back to New York, Storm?" she asked, "I'd be wild to go. And he was the best looking thing! I adore older men. Is he in love with you?"

"In love with me? Of course not. He's a lawyer—in charge of the estate. And I'm not going back to New York because I was miserable there. I'm going to work—somewhere."

"But if there's an estate—did you inherit some money, Storm?"

"I don't want money. I want to be let alone."

Annabelle patted her foot, standing close beside the sober figure at the window.

"Storm," she said, eagerly, in a low tone, "was he the wrong man? I saw it in your face that you were disappointed—that you'd expected some one else. Storm, you did come here, running away from a man, didn't you? I felt it, all along. I knew there was something."

"Annabelle, please—I can't talk about things——"

"But, you aren't going to enter, are you, Storm?" the excited girl persisted. "You aren't going to be a novice? Sister DuBose thinks you are. I heard her tell Mother that she thought you were trying to make the decision."

"How in the world do you find out so many things, Annabelle?"

"O," Annabelle gave a small, gay shrug, "it's easy if you know the right places to listen. Not much happens around here without my knowing about it. It's self-defense, partly, of course. If you're ignorant about what goes on, they can get you in a spot, and you're helpless unless you've had warning. Don't let them coax you into entering, Storm. It would be awful—as pretty as you are—all your life in a place like this! Those awful habits, flopping around and your hair cut off, and never to see a man again except maybe to talk business to some stuffy creature across a desk! Don't do it. I don't know what has happened to you—but whatever it was it can't be as bad as giving up your whole life. You've had a blow, I know—you've been practically numb, ever since you came. But you'll get over it. Was he terribly attractive?"

"Was who attractive?"

"The man. The one who sent you off into this daze and put that look on your face?"

"There was only one man. He was old—and he died. And I'm not in a daze, Annabelle. I'm trying to think. And nobody has taught me to think. I've had to learn, from the beginning."

GASOLINE ALLEY — LIFE IS EARNEST.

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: A Good Time Was Had by All

Asks Inspired U. S. History for Schools

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co. Inc.]

That inspired teaching of American history is needed in our schools and colleges is my firm belief. We need history taught by men and women who, first, have a comprehensive knowledge of their subject; who, second, are inspired teachers; and who, third, but not at all last have a spiritual enthusiasm for our ideal of human liberty and so are able to pass it on to their students.

This we need. We need it for our children whose American heritage dates far back. We need it more for the children of men and women born in other lands with other human standards. Also we need such teaching available to those who wish to become American citizens, available if indeed not a required course for prospective citizens.

But to obtain this result in our schools and colleges, something must be done about the training of teachers in history to bring it about. To be sure, some such thoughtful and inspired teaching is being done today but it is only scattered, where it should be universal. That our children need a fundamental understanding of America and what it means to be an American, not just in feeling but in knowledge, should be obvious to all of us, parents and educators alike.

To make for young people a list of books that depict America in the way I've been discussing is a task worth doing. For this column I shall do what I can to compile such a list by asking the help of those who are teaching American history in this creative way. And among the books suggested I hope I shall find some comparable to "The Epic of America," by James Truslow Adams, with its fascinating prolog.

A list of books on American history now is ready. Send a large, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Address Mrs. Gladys Bevans, the Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

Kent College Reunion.

The class of 1915 of the Chicago Kent College of Law will hold its annual reunion dinner Thursday in the Hotel Sherman.

State Opens Horner Lincoln Collection in Springfield Feb. 12

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 2.—Dedication ceremonies on Lincoln's birthday will mark the formal opening to the public of the Henry Horner collection of Lincolniana, Paul M. Angle, librarian of the state historical library, announced today.

State officers and noted scholars and writers will participate in the program to be held in the auditorium of the Centennial building at 3 p. m., Feb. 12.

Among them will be Gov. Dwight H. Green and Lieut. Gov. Hugh W. Cross, officially representing the state of Illinois; Carl Sandburg, author of the six-volume biography of Lincoln.

At the same time trustees of the library will publicly acknowledge other recent gifts of historical material—notably papers of "Uncle Joe" Cannon, famed speaker of the house of representatives; the scrapbooks of the late Governor and Senator Charles S. Deneen; the paper of Gen. John M. Palmer, also a former governor and senator, and the notes and memoranda used by Nicolay and Hay, Lincoln secretaries, in their biography of the civil war President.

A good white sauce or cream sauce is the foundation of hundreds of recipes. It's important to know how to make the three types of white sauce because of their importance in everyday cooking. Thin white sauce is the base of cream soups; medium white sauce is used for creamed and scalloped dishes; thick white sauce is the binder for croquettes and meat loaves.

Only the flour and butter proportions are changed to make the three different sauces.

Thin White Sauce.
[For cream soups.]
1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon flour
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 cup milk

Medium White Sauce.
[For creamed and scalloped dishes.]
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 cup milk

Thick White Sauce.
[For croquettes, meat loaves.]
3 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoon flour
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 cup milk

Method for all white sauces: Melt butter in a saucepan. Stir in flour, salt, and pepper. Add milk gradually and stir until sauce has thickened and is smooth.

The medium white sauce appears most frequently in recipes and may be varied in a dozen interesting ways. Cheese often is melted in it for creamed cauliflower, asparagus, and certain other vegetables. Chopped parsley or mint may be added for carrots or creamed leftover lamb. Chopped pimiento makes a good sauce for boiled potatoes. Pimiento and parsley together make an interesting cream sauce, and if chopped onion or chives is added, the potatoes are delicious.

When meats are to be creamed a tablespoon or more of catsup or chili sauce, prepared mustard or horseradish [go easy on the horseradish!] may be added to the white sauce. For fish, parsley and lemon juice make a good sauce. Since lemon juice will thin the sauce somewhat, it's a good idea to substitute it for a part of the milk, altho it shouldn't be added until just before the sauce is to be served.

Chopped or sliced sautéed mushrooms, chopped ripe or stuffed olives may be added to a white sauce for a meat loaf or for chicken. spices such as celery salt, curry powder, dry mustard and chili powder give "zip" to a white sauce, in many instances. There are many other ways to adapt the sauce to the use for which it is intended but, in each case, the foundation white sauce should be creamy, smooth, and thoroly cooked.

Feb. 3, 1941.

Universal day—Keep everything under control today. Watch nerves.

February—For those in a two year this year, the month of February is a four month. That means that the best way to work with your numbers is to work very hard to get practical results. Think about saving, not spending, and try to keep your affairs in order. You will want them set when things happen next month. This is not the time to try to enjoy yourself too much. Get right down to brass tacks. Keep the pot boiling and let the dreams be realities not vague ideas. Establish yourself in your work. Make a short but industrious month.

Alcohol Has a Beneficial Shampoo Role

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co. Inc.]

Research has run to earth rumors to the effect that alcohol is harmful in a shampoo, and offers evidence that alcohol is beneficial in a shampoo.

The report tells that alcohol in shampoos adds to fat-solvent properties. Better cleansing effects in hair shampoos result from the use of alcohol in the formulations. The ability of alcohol to dissolve fats is said to be an especially desirable property in preparations for the hair, a property which is of value also in other preparations for the hair and scalp.

Alcohol, it is explained, gives astringent effects to skin lotions. In addition, the antiseptic and germicidal properties of alcohol are beneficial.

Tincture of green soap USP, used by the medical profession for tiny babies and sick persons, the report discloses, must be 35 per cent alcohol to conform to government standards.

It is further claimed by authorities that alcohol in a shampoo dissolves dandruff and washes it away.

A shampoo with alcohol content long has been recognized as an aid in overcoming the extremely oily hair condition.

To dye or not to dye the hair is answered in the booklet, "Bring Out the Beauty in Your Hair," by Antoinette Donnelly, Tribune beauty editor. If you are thinking of dyeing your hair, read Miss Donnelly's expert opinion. You can get the booklet at Tribune Public Service offices, 1 S. Dearborn street, and Tribune Tower. Price, 5 cents. By postpaid mail, 7 cents.

THRU THE LOOKING GLASS

There's more than one way to acquire that fashionable toasted effect. You can do it the luxurious way by heading south, loaded down with sun tan promoters, or you can get your tan out of a bottle.

One of the advantages of the latter system is that once you have a coat of tan you're not stuck with it. You can be berry brown one day and fair as a lily the next because the stuff washes off right easily. And if you like to make the element of surprise one of the facets of your particular charm there's something to be said for the quick change act.

The sunkissed complexion that comes out of a bottle is obtained by using a good preparation that just came to market. It's a thin, coppery lotion with a pleasant fragrance, and so far as we could find out it doesn't sting the most sensitive skin or make it dry. It's rather unusually interesting in that it imparts to the skin not only a coppery warm tint but a certain attractive glow.

The tint can be made deeper by applying a second coat right after the first one. It's applied with absorbent cotton and smoothed and blended with the fingers. Be sure you start well below the shoulder line so there won't be any line of demarcation to let the public in on your beauty secret.

The bronze liquid might rub off a very little on light fabric, especially if you perspire. But it washes out ever so easily. ELEANOR NANGLE.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1941: By Ely Culbertson.]

Today Mr. Culbertson begins a series of articles on the new 1941 Culbertson system of bidding, which will be officially published March 1.

In building the Culbertson system of bidding I always have tried to take the mental processes by which master players bid, and express them in terms which all players can understand and use.

For six years the minimum biddable suit in the Culbertson system has been Q-J-x-x or better. All experts occasionally bid on weaker suits. Not long ago I polled a number of expert players. All of them said: "I don't like to bid on less than Q-J-x-x, but I bid a suit as weak as Q-x-x-x if I have to." Now, an expert may know "when he has to bid a weak suit," but the average player does not know. My job is to tell him.

This problem has been solved in the 1941 simplified Culbertson system, by the following rule:

You may open the bidding in a suit as weak as Q-x-x-x, K-x-x-x or A-x-x-x only when your hand contains another biddable suit as well; or when your hand has more than the minimum number of honor tricks usually required for an opening bid.

In today's hand South was correct in bidding his weak spade suit originally, because he also had another biddable suit [hearts] in his hand. South's advantage in bidding one spade, rather than one heart, was this: After the two diamond response by North, which he feared, he was able to bid two hearts and give North a choice of two suits, both at the level of two. If South first had bid one heart, and then two spades, North might have been forced to three hearts if he had held greater length in hearts than in spades. A two no trump rebid by South would have been dangerous, as it would have shown a strong hand and encouraged North to go on to game.

South made his two spade contract on this hand and, as it turned out, two spades was the only contract North-South could hope to make.

West opened the club jack, East played the queen and South took the ace. South took two high hearts, and ruffed a small heart with the five of spades in dummy. Then he ran three high diamonds from dummy, discarding a low club on the third. This trick West trumped with the spade ten.

The contract could have gone down one, if West had led a low club, putting East in for a trump lead, but West led the jack of hearts, and dummy's nine of spades was put on, forcing out East's spade king. After that, the defenders could win only their club trick and West's two high spades, giving them five tricks in all.

TURF SPILL FATAL TO DEW, CHAMPION JOCKEY

ED OLIVER'S 275 WINS WESTERN OPEN GOLF CROWN

NELSON, HOGAN TIE FOR SECOND PLACE WITH 278

Champion Trails 2 Strokes at 54th.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Phoenix, Ariz., Feb. 2.—Edward Stewart Oliver, whose 232 pounds encompass good nature, courage, and golfing skill in equal parts, today won the 41st open championship of the Western Golf association with a 275, nine under par, for the sun-washed acreage of the Phoenix Country club.

Oliver, better known as Porky, is the chubby lad who in the most recent of his 24 years has undergone a variety of vicissitudes for one so young. Along about this time last year Oliver finally scored his first victory after a couple of stretches on the winter circuit. That happened in the Bing Crosby invitational. He added the 54 hole Phoenix Open title on this same course to it. Then came the now historic disqualification case in the National Open in Cleveland, where Porky matched the totals of Lawson Little and Gene Sarazen, but was disqualified for having started prematurely.

His Triumph Is Popular.

Oliver survived that disappointment so well that he went on to collect more than $5,000 in tournament winnings. His triumph today was one of the most popular in years, for the boyish Porky has charmed not only galleries, but his rivals as well. It was the first major victory for the former Delaware caddy and earned him $1,000 and a rating as a gent to be feared thruout this year. Oliver allowed that may not be, for he withdrew from the Oakland Open recently to drive across the continent to his parents' home in Wilmington, Del., to answer a summons from his local draft board. The board excused him for a number of weeks and he rejoined the touring troupe of professionals.

Oliver's victory was so decisive that he finished three strokes in front of a twosome consisting of Ben Hogan of White Plains, N. Y., and Byron Nelson of Toledo, O. Hogan, last year's winner of the Vardon trophy and top money earner of the season, slid back to a 72 on this afternoon's final round, while Nelson took a 74, the two finishing with 278. Nelson earned a share of second place with a seven foot putt on the 72d hole that hung on the lip of the cup for half a minute.

Ward Leads Amateurs.

John Bulla of Chicago, first round pacemaker, finished with 280. Marvin [Bud] Ward of Spokane, Wash., present Western champion, led the amateurs with 291.

Three shots back at the 36 hole point, Oliver jumped into a second place to with Hogan, thanks to his final nine of 30, which gave him a third round 67 and a deadlock with Ben at 206. Both, however, found themselves two shots away, Nelson coming home with a 67 for a 204 total that looked handsome until he found himself with 39 strokes for the first nine of the final round.

This left Nelson with a 63 hole aggregate of 243. Hogan took temporary command at this juncture with a 240, after his out nine of 34, while Oliver remained a stroke behind with a 35. Coming in, however, Hogan required 38 strokes, while Oliver was fashioning a 34, the highest score he had on the back nine, but still handy enough for a comfortable winning margin. MOON MULLINS—STORM WARNING

IT'S DAVEY DAY'S BIG NIGHT; BOXES BILLY MARQUART

He'll Try to Win Without Old Pilots in Coliseum.

BY FRANK MASTRO.

Davey Day, who has reached the conclusion he can pilot himself into a lightweight championship bout against Lew Jenkins without the assistance of his managers, San Pian and Art Winch, tonight will open his campaign as a self-directing boxer in a 10 round bout with Billy Marquart of Winnipeg, Man., in the Coliseum.

For the first time in eight years Pian and Winch, two of the ablest fight handlers in the game, will not be behind their rangy protégé because of a dispute arising after Day's recent one round knockout victory over Nick Castiglione.

Whether this lack of assistance from his managers will harm Day's chances against Marquart is debatable. Pian says he doesn't believe Day will be especially handicapped. In fact he predicts Day will win. Davey concurs in this opinion, but others dispute the claim.

Day's Eye Is on Jenkins.

Day will be reinforced by expert cornermen, but none answers to the name of Pian or Winch. Regardless, these men can't fight for Davey, as he well knows from experience. One of the shrewdest strokes by Pian and Winch was their success in maneuvering the Chicagoan into a 15 round contest against Sammy Angott in Louisville last May 3 for recognition as lightweight champion by the National Boxing association.

Day's failure to take advantage of this opportunity cost him the decision and, of course, the title, his managers recall. Now Davey has challenged Jenkins, 135 pound champion in New York. This is the match he will seek if he beats Marquart.

Day, who is 28 years old and has been boxing more than 10 years, is confident of knocking out Billy. Marquart's backers scoff at this prediction. They know the Canadian fighter carries a hard punch and lets it fly with explosive force.

Heavyweight Sluggers Meet.

A 10 round semi-final will bring together Lem Franklin and Carl Vinciquerra, former Golden Gloves champions, the former as a heavyweight in 1937 and Carl as a light heavyweight in 1936. Both are punchers.

Quentin [Babe] Breese, Manhattan, Kas., lightweight, and Jimmy Tygh of Philadelphia, who doesn't have to take a back seat for Breese or any one else when it comes to roughhouse fighting, meet in a third match of 10 rounds. Eddie Lander and Gene Ward clash in a six round opener.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Chicago's Blackhawks administered a 4 to 1 licking to the Toronto Maple Leafs, National Hockey league leaders, before 16,660 in the Stadium last night. The Hawks thus gained revenge for a 3 to 1 defeat suffered in Toronto Saturday night.

A fight, in which Referee Bill Stewart became confused and challenged Earl Seibert instead of separating the combatants, interrupted play in the third period and enlivened the game. Bob Carse of the Hawks and Wally Stanowski of the Leafs drew major penalties for the fight, altho Carse's only crime appeared to be in receiving a well executed punch in the eye.

Chad Gets First Score.

The Hawks, fortified by the return of Joe Cooper and the recall of Max Bentley from Kansas City, sent five men down the ice early in the first period as soon as Red Hamilton had been sent off for charging Max Bentley, and went ahead on Johnny Chad's perfect pickup of Seibert's pass in 7:37.

A combination play involving Doug Bentley, Cully Dahlstrom, and Phil Hergesheimer made the score 2 to 0 in 15:15 of the period when Hergesheimer drove a long shot thru Goalie Turk Broda's legs.

The second period goal resulted from a well executed play in which Chad, Bob Carse, and Bill Thoms deceived Broda, Thoms batting the puck into an open net after Carse had pitched it over the lunging goalie's head. The time was 17:15.

Scores in 44 Seconds.

Bob Carse made the fourth Hawk goal in the 44th second of the last period on a long shot from along the boards, the puck catching the far corner of the cage and bounding into the net.

The Leaf goal was scored by Dave Schriner in 10:10 of the third period when Goalie Sammy Lo Presti, attempting to recover from spectacular saves on Stanowski and Don Metz, could not get back into the net fast enough.

Cooper was making his first appearance in the Chicago lineup since he suffered a fracture of a small ankle bone on Jan. 12.

O'ROURKE, BOSTON COLLEGE STAR, TO COACH IN BRONX

New York, Feb. 2 (AP).—Charley O'Rourke, half back who led Boston college to victory over Tennessee in the Sugar bowl New Year's day, has been appointed head football coach for the new $3,000,000 Cardinal Hayes Memorial High school in the Bronx.

There had been reports that O'Rourke, a native of Malden, Mass., would play professional football. In the National league draft, he was chosen early by the Champion Chicago Bears.

DIES TWO HOURS AFTER 3 HORSE PILEUP AT AGUA

San Diego, Cal., Feb. 2 [Special].—Earl Dew, slim 19 year old Iowan who won the American jockey championship in 1940, rode to his death today on Agua Caliente track, just across the border in Mexico. His skull fractured, Dew died two hours after a three horse spill while an ambulance was carrying him to a San Diego hospital.

Ironically, Dew, later in the afternoon, was to have received a diamond studded watch emblematic of his riding championship. He had flown to San Diego this morning from Albany, Cal., to accept the award, and had decided to take part in the program.

Horse in Spill Dies.

Dew, native of Sac City, Ia., was aboard Bosca, a 5 year old mare, in the third afternoon race—a six furlong sprint with a $500 purse—when his mount fell while turning into the stretch. Draco, ridden by Billy Pearson, fell over Dew, and Whiz Shot, piloted by Jack Haycock, stumbled over the fallen pair. Dew was thrown over Bosca's head onto the track. His horse died immediately from a broken neck. The other jockeys and horses were uninjured.

Dew was in a near fainting condition as he was taken to the track hospital, but application of ice packs revived him. According to Dr. E. H. Crabtree, track physician, the youngster seemed to rally. Two hours later he suffered a relapse. He was placed in an ambulance and was rushed to San Diego.

"He was completely conscious and in possession of his faculties while lying in bed at the track," Dr. Crabtree said, "but he gave way in a flash from what apparently was a secondary hemorrhage."

A Sport Thrill of 1940.

His battle for premier riding honors on the American turf with Walter Lee Taylor, also 19 years old and a native of Houston, Tex., was one of sport's most thrilling climaxes of 1940. On the final day of the year Dew rode one winner at Santa Anita, Subdeb, and this decided the championship. He finished with 287 victories, one more than his Texas rival.

Across the continent, at Tropical Park in Florida, Taylor was injured on the final day of 1940 when thrown by his mount after he had failed to score a victory in three previous races.

Told of Taylor's accident before he went out to ride Subdeb to victory in the first race, the Iowa boy had said:

"Gee, that's too darn bad. I wanted him to ride today. If I should have a winner now I'd sort of hate to win the championship that way. I'd just as soon have a tie."

Shake Hands After Fight.

Late in December, while both were riding at Tropical Park, their rivalry reached such a heated point that they came to blows. Later they grinned at each other and shook hands after track stewards fined them $50 each. Dew left Florida on Dec. 27 to take advantage of more and better mounts at Santa Anita and Agua Caliente.

Dew, son of an Iowa horseman, rode 1,367 horses last year. In addition to his 287 victories he had 201 seconds and 178 thirds. Taylor wound up second 243 times and third 170 times.

More than 20,000 spectators saw the pileup, which was the second serious accident of the 15 race program. Earlier, in a steeplechase, Al Dorey, aboard Sunny Monday, was hurt when his mount tumbled while going over a jump and rolled on him. He was taken to a San Diego hospital and was reported suffering from brain concussion, but not in a dangerous condition.

DISCUSSES RACE DANGERS.

Sac City, Ia., Feb. 2 (AP).—Earl Dew only recently discussed the dangers of horse racing. Home for a vacation here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Dew, Earl went to Des Moines Jan. 7, where he was honored with Bob Feller, star pitcher, at a convention. Discussing the possibilities of injuries in racing, he told a reporter:

"Even falling off a horse in a race when there are no other horses near is not at all impossible. If the horse moves suddenly to one side or the other, you're apt to go overboard. He might see something on the track and shy away from it."

Dew, on his return to Sac City, purchased a 160 acre farm for his parents.

The mother of the almost bashful youngster was grief stricken at the news of her son's death and she was under a physician's care tonight. The father said his son's body would be returned here Wednesday. Funeral services probably will be Thursday.

Survivors besides the parents include two brothers, Dale, 13 years old, and Larry, 3, and a sister, Bethel, 17.

Schenectady, N. Y., Feb. 2 (AP).—Ken Bartholomew of Minneapolis sped thru the gathering dusk today to win the five mile race and become the 1941 North American speed skating champion.

Winner last week of the national title at La Crosse, Wis., Bartholomew thrilled 20,000 fans in the final race of a three day meet, the outcome of which remained undecided until the last event.

Bartholomew scored 100 points while Charles Leighton of Minneapolis, who finished second in the five mile, won the runnerup position at 85. Tied for third in the standings with 60 points were Leo Freisinger of Chicago, the defending champion, and Ted Ellenwood, 21 year old Amsterdam, N. Y., stock clerk.

Hackenbach Is Third.

Bartholomew's time in the long distance race was 17 minutes 23.4 seconds. Bob Hackenbach, Chicago, placed third.

Freisinger, pacemaker at the end of the second day, did not start in the final event. The scramble for the championship was thrown wide open earlier when Vic Ronchetti of Chicago scored a victory in the three-quarter mile, with Bartholomew taking second.

REPORT BROWN NAMES HIS AIDS AT OHIO STATE

Columbus, O., Feb. 2 (AP).—Coach Paul E. Brown's assistant football staff at Ohio State university is all set, the Ohio State Journal said tonight.

The newspaper declared Brown's aids would be Ernest R. Godfrey and Fritz Mackey, formerly on the staff of Coach Francis A. Schmidt who resigned Dec. 16, Hugh E. McGranahan, Carroll C. Widdoes, and Fred K. Heisler, Brown's assistants at Massillon High school, and Paul O. Bixler, football aid and head basketball coach at Colgate university.

Heisler, 1938 graduate of Miami university, will become freshman coach, with Godfrey as his assistant, the Journal said.

Mackey is expected to take over the chief scouting job, along with helping McGranahan and Bixler in coaching the line. Widdoes will be assigned the blocking backs and quarter backs, and Brown will take charge of the wing backs and ends.

3 Casters Get Perfect Score; Girl Triumphs

Three competitors in The Tribune's casting tournament on Navy pier last night made perfect scores of 100, a triple achievement never before equaled in a local, state, or national casting event.

A score of 100, rarely recorded, is to a caster what a 300 is to a bowler, and the triple tie amazed experienced casters who watched the event. The highest score ever registered in a three-eighths ounce competition in a national tournament is 99.

The perfect scores were registered by Miss Margaret Weaver, 5444 Ellis avenue, a member of the Sherman Park Casting club; George Hess, 5400 Greenwood avenue, Illinois Casting club; and Walter Brewer, 1156 Diversey parkway, Lincoln Park Casting club.

Miss Weaver won the castoff with a 98, Brewer placed second with a 97, Hess third with 92. Fifty-four casters took part in the event which was held in conjunction with the National Boat and Sports show.

Today is Illinois day at the show, and a special observance is planned by the Illinois Development council, the state tourist bureau, and the state departments of conservation and forestry.

The Boat and Sports show, featuring all types of water craft and exhibits by resort owners, tourist associations, and manufacturers of outdoor equipment, will continue thru Feb. 9.

FALKS VANQUISH VIKINGS TO WIN SOCCER TOURNEY

The Falk corporation of Milwaukee defeated the Vikings of Chicago, 1 to 0, in the 122d Field Artillery armory yesterday to win the nine-a-side amateur indoor soccer tournament sponsored by the Illinois Soccer commission.

The Falks and Vikings tied, each with six victories, one defeat and two ties, at the end of the round robin schedule and met each other in a playoff.

The Workers won the six team juvenile tournament, defeating Ogden Park, 1 to 0, in the final game.

The German Americans conquered the Workers, 3 to 0, in the replay of the junior final.

Hens Behnke of the Schwabens suffered a fractured ankle when he collided with another player during the Schwabens' game with the Falks.

BOWLS 300 SCORE AS HIS TEAM SETS NATIONAL MARK

A 300 game rolled by Stanley Kosobucki helped the Vogels of the West Suburban Traveling league set a bowling record last night when they scored 1,273 in one game, the highest made in the nation this season.

J. Veverka, team mate of Kosobucki, almost matched the 300 score in his own first game. He fell short with a 296 when the No. 4 pin failed to topple on his last roll.

The Vogels established their record in a league game against Argo at the Vogel recreation in Oak Park. Their scores:

J. Erven	267	195	234	—696
F. Leitz	196	193	206	—595
S. Kosobucki	300	244	223	—767

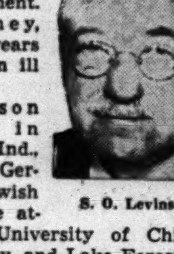
S. O. LEVINSON, SEEKER OF PEACE, DIES AT AGE 75

Sponsor of Kellogg-Briand Anti-War Treaty.

Salmon Oliver Levinson, 4049 Lake Park avenue, attorney and advocate of international peace, died yesterday in Michael Reese hospital of a heart ailment. The attorney, who was 75 years old, had been ill 18 months.



S. O. Levinson.

Mr. Levinson was born in Noblesville, Ind., the son of a German born Jewish tailor. He attended the University of Chicago, Yale university, and Lake Forest university, and in 1891 was admitted to the Illinois bar. He specialized in the reorganization of railroads and industrial firms.

An Advocate of Peace.

An advocate of peace, he tried during the world war to have the conflict ended by negotiation, and after supporting American entry into the league of nations, later fought that step on the charge that the league covenant failed to outlaw war.

In 1921 he worked with the American delegation to the disarmament conference on a plan to outlaw war, and during the next few years persuaded Senator William E. Borah of Idaho to campaign on behalf of the outlawry of war idea.

Helped Draft Treaty.

Mr. Levinson went to Europe in 1927 to work for peace, and while there aided in drafting what was later the Kellogg-Briand pact. In 1930 his name was proposed as a candidate for the Nobel peace prize.

He was interested in many philanthropic enterprises. He was decorated with the French legion of honor in 1934, three years after he had been awarded the Rosenberger medal by the University of Chicago for his work in improving international relations. He was author of the oft-quoted palindrome "Deliver evil deed, live reviled."

Mr. Levinson leaves his widow, Ruth; three sons, Horace C. Levinson of Princeton, N. J., Ronald B. Levinson, professor of philosophy at the University of Maine, and John Oliver Levinson, an attorney at Bridgeport, Conn., and a daughter, Mrs. J. C. Furnas of Lebanon, N. J.

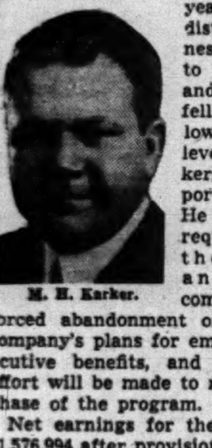
THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

SALES SET PEAK, PROFITS SHRINK; WHY? TAXATION

Jewel Tea Earnings $2.82 Per Share.

Altho 1940 sales of the Jewel Tea company were the largest in its 41 years in the food distribution business, taxes rose to a new peak and net profits fell slightly below the 1939 level, M. H. Karker, president, reported yesterday. He disclosed that requirements of the Securities and Exchange commission had forced abandonment of one of the company's plans for employé and executive benefits, and that a legal effort will be made to retain another phase of the program.



M. H. Karker.

Net earnings for the year totaled $1,576,994 after provision for the company's profit sharing plan and other charges, equal to $2.82 a share, compared with $1,583,177 in 1939, or $2.83 a share. Sales were $29,231,608, or 17.95 per cent above the 1939 total of $24,782,383.

Total Tax $1,440,169.

The company, which operates food stores and sales routes in various parts of the country from headquarters in Barrington, Ill., was assessed a total of $1,440,169 in taxes for 1940, topping the 1939 tax bill by $302,912, or 26.64 per cent. Altho the company was not liable for the excess profits tax in 1940, rate increases in income taxes boosted federal taxes alone by $120,165.

To illustrate the steady rise in taxes, Karker listed figures showing last year's bill was equivalent to $2.57 a share on the company's stock, compared with $1.52 in 1936 and 44 cents in 1932. The year's bill was equivalent to $376.23 for each employé, against $246.52 and $87.57 in the other years, respectively. The tax bill was $850,605 in 1936 and $248,457 in 1932.

Savings Plan Discontinued.

"The employés' savings plan was discontinued as of Nov. 23, 1940, and all such deposits were refunded to employés with interest to that date," Karker said. "The Securities and Exchange commission ruled that this plan constituted a public offering of a security and therefore must be registered annually, but the requirements for registration and for printing and distribution of prospectuses were too burdensome and expensive to justify continuing this service to employés. The Jewel employés trust fund is continued for the purpose of holding cash bond deposits required from employés."

Karker said that the SEC had placed another company plan, Jewel Retirement Estates, in a category requiring registration, but that the company would contest this on the ground that no security is involved and no offering made to the public.

In 1938, because SEC requirements were regarded too burdensome, Jewel abandoned a plan under which officers and employés purchased company stock.

Karker said that "a program of aggressive expansion" begun last June is scheduled for completion in 1944. The number of operating units was increased during 1940 by 55 routes and 16 stores.

"Products are being sold today at the lowest prices in the history of the corporation," he said.

Consolidated Copper Mines corporation reported for the quarter ended Dec. 31 net income of $722,008 before depletion and federal income taxes, equal to 45 cents a capital share, compared with $319,923, or 20 cents a share in the corresponding 1939 quarter. John A. Payne, president, told stockholders fourth quarter earnings were the largest for any three months in the company's history.

CELOTEX.

I would like to know what position Celotex holds in the building industry and something about the company's capital setup and operating results.—R. P.

Answer: The Celotex corporation, Chicago, is the largest manufacturer of insulation and acoustical materials made from bagasse [sugar cane fiber]. The company also makes roofing, gypsum, and other building products. Celotex has sales and manufacturing agreements with Certain-teed Products corporation, an affiliate.

Construction needs of the national defense program and a general upturn in building have kept Celotex operations at capacity. New business in November was the largest for any month in the company's history.

Despite larger sales in the last fiscal year, profits were only slightly better than in the preceding year. The company's income will be subject for the first time to the new excess profits tax law in the 1941 fiscal year. The company estimated that it will have an exemption of $1,050,000, equal to $1.41 a common share before the tax would be applicable. The company's consolidated earnings record in recent fiscal years ended Oct. 31 follows:

	Net sales.	Net income.	Earned per com. share.
1936	$ 7,589,955	$ 736,014	$2.20
1937	10,574,242	1,266,753	4.17
1938	9,126,488	518,358	1.19
1939	12,317,935	741,756	0.95
1940	13,817,501	747,628	0.96

A dividend of 25 cents a common share, the first cash payment since 1937, will be paid tomorrow to holders of record Jan. 27. Regular quarterly dividends are being paid on the preferred stock. The company has outstanding $3,619,000 in funded debt, 29,072½ shares of 5 per cent cumulative preferred stock of $100 par value, and 627,676 shares of no par common stock.

TAXABLE DIVIDENDS.

Do I have to report as income dividends received from federal savings and loan, or building and loan associations?—H. S.

Answer: Dividends received on share accounts in all types of savings and loan associations must be reported under gross income in your federal income tax return. However, dividends paid by federally-chartered savings and loan associations are subject only to surtax and are exempt from the normal tax. Dividends of state-chartered buildings and loan associations are subject both to the normal and the surtax.

DUTCH SUSPEND BOND INTEREST AND REDEMPTION

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2. (AP).—The Netherlands legation announced today that its government had suspended payment of interest on and redemption of its outstanding debt. There are no outstanding Netherlands dollar bonds. The entire debt is stipulated in guilders. Bonds outstanding total 3,000,000,000 guilders [about $1,600,000,000 by prewar exchange.]

Altho there was no statement from the legation to that effect, it was understood that a major objective of the move was to prevent funds from going into German hands.

BONDS, SHARES OF WISCONSIN UTILITY OFFERED

Underwriters headed by the First Boston corporation and the Wisconsin company today will offer $26,500,000 of first mortage 3¼ per cent bonds, and 132,000 shares of preferred stock, 5 per cent series of the Wisconsin Public Service corporation. The bonds are priced at 106 and interest. The preferred stock, of $100 par value, is priced at $105.

Proceeds will be used in a refunding program.

STEEL MAKERS' PROFITS DOUBLE THOSE FOR 1939

Trade More Certain About Supplies.

Steel companies producing 80 per cent of the nation's ingots had 1940 profits nearly double those of 1939. A compilation by the magazine Steel showed yesterday that these 11 producers, first to issue earnings statements, had aggregate net income of $231,961,571 after all charges but before preferred dividends, against $117,112,476 in 1939 and $190,015,388 in 1937.

The concerns, including United States Steel, Bethlehem, and Republic, the top three in that order, earned $79,663,058 in the busy fourth quarter—nearly 17 per cent more than the last three months of 1939 and about 16 per cent more than in 1940's third quarter.

More Confident on Supplies.

Makers and users of steel "are more confident that in the long run there will be an abundance of the product even tho the delivery situation becomes ever tenser," the magazine reported.

"Each week which passes without shutdown or curtailment of consumers' plants for lack of steel gives confidence in the future," the review said. "New methods, devices, and shortcuts are being adopted to expedite manufacture and delivery. Thus mills take less pains in cutting to pattern, consumers being satisfied to receive the cruder material.

"More standardization is evolving, resulting in greater production. Furnaces and mills are often operating above rated capacities, too.

British Buying Shrinks.

"British steel purchases fell off sharply in January, probably pending outcome of the lease-lend bill. January steel sales still were reported generally larger than December's, however, and in some instances equaled last October, the best of 1940. January gains were ascribed to more defense orders, more civilian purchasing for fear of priorities or scarcity, and to the season, needs for spring and summer outdoor work being anticipated."

The publication, after revising its figures for the last two weeks to conform to new estimates of national capacity, reckoned ingot production rose last week 1½ points to 96 per cent of capacity.

FOOD EXPORTS IN 1940 DIP TO 240 MILLIONS DUE TO WAR BLOCKADE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2 [Special].—Due to the British blockade and the consequent closing of major European markets, American food exports dropped from $312,000,000 during 1939 to $240,000,000 in 1940, the department of commerce announced tonight. Food imports also declined, from $604,000,000 to $563,000,000.

Fruit and meat were the exports most heavily affected, altho the meat decline was offset to an extent by the elimination of some imported items such as Polish hams. On the other hand, the dairy and fish canning industries showed gains, because the Netherlands and Norway no longer supplied such products.

The virtual loss of the British market was the major factor in reducing lard exports from 277,000,000 pounds in 1939 to 201,000,000 pounds in 1940.

VAST INCREASES IN PRODUCTION OF OIL POSSIBLE

The American petroleum industry, on 24 hours' notice, could increase its daily crude oil production by a million barrels and boost refinery runs to nearly 4½ million barrels daily, the Oil and Gas Journal said yesterday.

"These are the basic factors," the magazine said, "which qualify the petroleum industry to meet any conceivable increase in normal domestic and defense program demand."

Proven reserves of crude oil scattered thruout 23 states total 2,099,258,000 barrels, an increase of 411,919,000 barrels over 1939.

BUDD HONORED AGAIN FOR RAIL IMPROVEMENTS

The Washington award for 1941, one of the nation's highest engineering honors, has been conferred upon Ralph Budd of Chicago, president of the Burlington railroad and transportation member of the defense advisory committee, it was announced yesterday.

Frank F. Fowle, chairman of the award commission, said it was conferred in recognition of Budd's "vision and courageous leadership in advancing the technological frontiers of high speed railroad transportation."

A few weeks ago Budd received the John Fritz medal conferred by a group of engineering organizations.

COAL DIVISION ORDERS FIRST CODE PENALTY

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2 (AP).—The bituminous coal division announced today it had issued the first order revoking a producers' membership as a penalty for violation of the coal code. The order revoked the membership of the Dunreath Coal company, Knoxville, Ia.

"The producer got only $1.42 per ton, at the mine instead of the full code price," the statement said.

MANY MACHINES AND PLANTS ARE REPORTED IDLE

First Reports in U.S. Survey Received.

New York, Feb. 2 [Special].—Early returns from a nation-wide survey disclosed today that there is a vast amount of idle plant space and partly used machinery and equipment available for the preparedness program.

Walter D. Fuller issues first report.

The survey was undertaken by the National Industrial council, an affiliate of the National Association of Manufacturers in coöperation with 38 state manufacturing associations, on Jan. 19, at the suggestion of William S. Knudsen, director of the Office of Production Management.

Forecast Believed Accurate.

Only about 10 per cent of the questionnaires mailed out by the council have been returne dto date, but officials of the council believe they give a fairly accurate forecast of what the final results will show.

Walter D. Fuller, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, in making public the preliminary report, said that "state manufacturing organizations in Virginia, Kentucky, Maine, and a dozen other states east of the Mississippi from whom early returns have been received show a perponderance of manufacturers does not hove defense contracts at present but their facilities can and will be converted to defense production if desired."

Manufacturers holding neither direct nor indirect contracts but claiming the ability to do some work reported many facilities completely idle. In addition, the survey showed that others in this class listed a wide variety of machine tools on hand which are being used for ordinary commercial production but which could be used for armament production.

List Machinery and Space.

As part of the survey, manufacturers listed all their available machinery and factory space on their returns. Some even reported their ability to obtain the necessary capital for plant changes which armament work would require and also their ability to provide the essential technical supervision.

An analysis of the first 100 returns from Virginia disclosed that only 21 of those reporting were engaged on defense contracts, either as primary or subcontractors. Forty said they could expand their production by amounts estimated at 10 to 300 per cent and twelve reported that they had company sponsored training programs under which unskilled and semiskilled workers are being trained for production work. Fifty-seven reported they had private railroad sidings.

Clearing House Proposed.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2 [Special].—The national defense advisory commission today proposed creation of local clearing houses similar to those operated by the war industries board during the world war to assist in "farming out" national defense orders.

Vagtborg to Make Industry Tour Thru South America

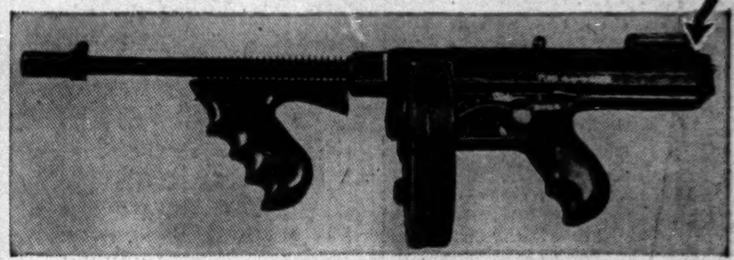
Pistol Into Submachine Gun; a Story Told in Pictures

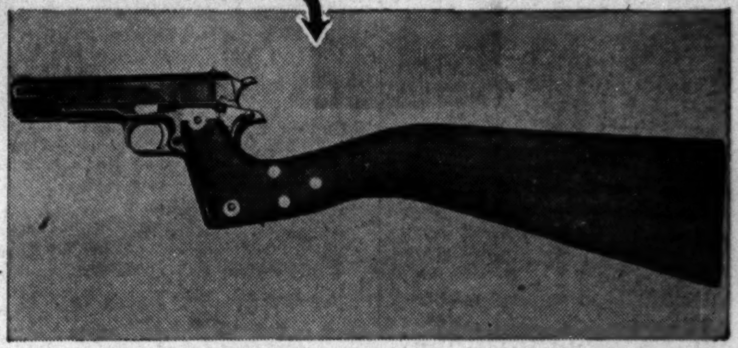
George Scharschug, cable editor of The Tribune, has become convinced that the easy German victories have resulted largely because the Germans were equipped with small automatic submachine guns, somewhat like this Mauser 9 mm.

We have very few submachine guns in our army Here is one.



But we have hundreds of thousands of automatic pistols. These are primarily weapons for horse cavalry, and can be handled effectively by very few men. For instance—Bill Wanzer, of the Tribune Experimental Farm, cannot do anything with a pistol.

Therefore, Rudolph Maurer, a friend, converted a Colt .45 into a submachine gun.



With this weapon, Bill Wanzer, on his first trial, was able every time to hit a target two feet square at 100 yards.

And here is the target showing Bill's hits.
